NEW TITLE - NOUVEAU TITRE

INDICATORS OF INDUSTRY AND SERVICES

INDICATEURS DE L'INDUSTRIE ET DES SERVICES

This publication provides an overall view of short-term economic developments in OECD Member countries in a great number of industries and services, classified according to the International Standard Industrial Classification of All Economic Activities, ISIC Revision 3.

Short-term indicators, quantitative and qualitative, monthly and/or quarterly, that are shown in this publication, give detailed information on both the most recent developments relating to output, turnover, orders, producer prices and employment and on anticipations of future events drawn from business tendency surveys. They allow political and economic decision makers to quickly analyse several aspects of the business cycle in detailed economic branches and to base their decisions on a precise knowledge of special economic short term events in all sectors.

Statistics relating to industrial sectors, which up to now were the only statistics to be shown in the publication Indicators of Industrial Activity are presented in Part 1, while, new information relating to service sectors are published for the first time in Part 2 of the current edition of the Indicators of Industry and Services. All quantitative indices are presented on base 1995=100.

A brief information on the variables covered is given in the introduction. The description of the ISIC Revision 3 classification and more detailed methodological notes are given after the statistical tables. Furthermore, two tables give, first, the percentage share of various industrial branches in total industry for each Member country, and secondly, the percentage share of each country in total OECD area by industrial branch. The publication, Sources and Methods – quantitative indicators, which contains detailed methodological notes by country and by variable was published by the OECD in August 1999 (English version only).

All quantitative and qualitative series presented in this publication, as well as more disaggregated data at the 3 and 4-digit levels of ISIC Revision 3 are available on CD-ROM for the period beginning in January 1990 where possible. The CD-ROM also includes historical series (1975-1998) according to ISIC revision 2 relating to quantitative indicators and covering industrial sectors only. The database is also accessible online at <http://www.SourceOECD.org/>.

This publication is the responsibility of the Statistics Directorate of the OECD Secretariat.

Cette publication donne une vue d'ensemble de l'évolution économique à court terme dans les pays Membres de l'OCDE pour un grand nombre de secteurs de l'industrie et des services classifiés selon la CITI révision 3 (Classification Internationale Type par Industrie de toutes les activités économiques).

Les indicateurs conjoncturels, quantitatifs et qualitatifs, mensuels et/ou trimestriels, présentés dans cette publication, donnent des informations détaillées à la fois sur les évolutions les plus récentes liées à la production, au chiffre d'affaires, aux commandes, aux prix à la production et à l'emploi et sur les anticipations d'événements futurs tirées d'enquêtes de conjoncture. Ils permettent aux dirigeants politiques et économiques d'analyser rapidement divers aspects du cycle d'activité par branche détaillée et de fonder leurs décisions sur une connaissance précise des événements économiques récents dans tous les secteurs.

Les statistiques relatives aux secteurs industriels qui étaient jusqu'à présent les seules à être présentées dans la publication Indicateurs des Activités Industrielles apparaissent en Partie 1, tandis que de nouvelles statistiques relatives aux secteurs des services apparaissent pour la première fois en Partie 2 de la présente édition des Indicateurs de l'Industrie et des Services. Tous les indices sont présentés en base 1995=100.

De brèves informations sur les variables couvertes sont données dans l'introduction. La description de la CITI révision 3 et des notes méthodologiques plus détaillées sont présentées après les tableaux statistiques. En outre, deux tableaux montrent, l'un, la part relative des diverses branches dans l'industrie totale de chaque pays Membre, l'autre, la part relative de chaque pays dans l'ensemble de la zone OCDE par branche industrielle. La publication Sources et Méthodes – indicateurs quantitatifs, qui contient des notes méthodologiques détaillées par pays et par variable, a été publiée par l'OCDE en août 1999 (anglais seulement).

Toutes les séries quantitatives et qualitatives présentées dans cette édition, ainsi que des données plus détaillées aux niveaux 3 et 4-chiffres de la CITI révision 3, sont disponibles sur CD-ROM, à partir de janvier 1990. Le CD-ROM contient en outre des séries historiques (1975-1998) en CITI révision 2 relatives aux indicateurs quantitatifs et portant sur les seuls secteurs industriels. Les données sont aussi accessibles en ligne <http://www.SourceOECD.org/>.

Cette publication est de la responsabilité de la Direction des Statistiques du Secrétariat de l'OCDE.

OECD - STATISTICS ON INDUSTRY AND SERVICES

The OECD Secretariat compiles a wide range of statistics by economic branch, most of them under the auspices of the Statistical Working Party of the Industry Committee.

The quarterly publication Indicators of Industry and Services gives an overall view of the most recent short-term economic development, and presents monthly indices of output, turnover, orders, prices and employment as well as qualitative information from business tendency surveys results according to ISIC Revision 3 for each OECD Member country. More detailed official annual data derived from business surveys and from foreign trade sources and covering a number of structural variables are given in Structural Statistics for Industry and Services. In addition, aggregate data for industrial production and producer prices are presented in the monthly publication, Main Economic Indicators.

The OECD estimated database for Structural Analysis (STAN), based on Structural Statistics for Industry and Services, contains a limited number of variables for most OECD countries. It has been developed to ensure a better international comparability of national statistics based on structural business surveys and their compatibility with national accounts data.

Trends and structural shifts in industry, presented in numerous detailed statistical tables and graphs, are examined in two other OECD publications, issued alternatively every two years, Science, Technology and Industry Outlook and Industry and Technology: Scoreboard of Indicators, for use by policy makers and analysts.

Statistics from these databases are available both as printed publications, and on CD-ROM. They are also accessible on line at <http://www.SourceOECD.org/>.

STATISTIQUES SUR L'INDUSTRIE ET LES SERVICES - OCDE

Le Secrétariat de l'OCDE compile une large gamme de statistiques par branche d'activité économique, le plus souvent sous l'égide du Groupe de Travail Statistique du Comité de l'industrie.

La publication trimestrielle Indicateurs de l'industrie et des services présente une vue générale de l'évolution économique à court terme la plus récente et contient des indices mensuels de production, chiffre d'affaires, commandes, prix et emploi et des données tirées d'enquêtes de conjoncture en CITI révision 3 pour chaque pays Membre de l'OCDE. Des données annuelles plus détaillées provenant d'enquêtes d'entreprises et de sources sur le commerce extérieur et couvrant un certain nombre de variables structurelles sont présentées dans Statistiques des structures de l'industrie et des services. En outre, des données agrégées de production industrielle et de prix à la production sont présentées dans la publication mensuelle Principaux indicateurs économiques.

La base de données estimées d'Analyse Structurelle de l'OCDE (STAN), fondée sur les Statistiques des structures de l'industrie et des services, comprend un nombre limité de variables pour la plupart des pays de l'OCDE. Elle a été développée pour assurer une meilleure comparabilité internationale des statistiques nationales fondées sur les enquêtes structurelles d'entreprises ainsi que leur compatibilité avec les comptes nationaux.

Les tendances et les mutations structurelles de l'industrie, présentées dans de nombreux tableaux et graphiques détaillés, sont examinées dans deux autres publications de l'OCDE, diffusées alternativement tous les deux ans, Les perspectives de la science, de la technologie et de l'industrie et Industrie et technologie : tableau de bord d'indicateurs, à l'usage des décideurs politiques et analystes.

Les statistiques de ces banques de données sont disponibles à la fois sur publications imprimées et sur CD-ROM. Elles sont également accessibles en ligne via <http://www.SourceOECD.org/>.

The tables presented in Indicators of Industry and Services can serve as a basis for analysis of the situation of OECD Member countries in different economic sectors.

They include both quantitative indicators and qualitative results drawn from business tendency surveys.

Indicators are classified by economic activity following the International Standard Industrial Classification (ISIC) adopted in February 1989 by the United Nations Organisation (Statistical Papers, Series M, No. 4, Rev. 3, New York 1990).

A detailed description of ISIC Revision 3 is shown on pages 193 to 199.

All quantitative and qualitative series presented in this edition are shown at the 2-digit level of ISIC Revision 3. More disaggregated statistics at the 3 and 4-digit levels of the ISIC Revision 3 classification are available on CD-ROM for the period beginning in January 1990 where available.

“Specific information” given on page 9 relates to statistical data shown in the present publication; revisions and additions relating to data presented on the CD-ROM only are listed on a separate file attached to it.

Quantitative indicators

The quantitative statistics retained for the industrial sectors relate to production, turnover, new orders, producer prices and employment. For service sectors only turnover and employment indicators are presented.

Basic data are obtained from replies to a questionnaire sent out by the OECD Secretariat and are provided either on index form or as figures in value or volume.

The statistics are published as indices on base 1995 = 100, to one decimal point, so as to enable comparisons between countries.

The Secretariat has carried out the necessary calculations to convert to index form data submitted by countries in value or volume and to rebase to 1995, indices supplied using other base years.

In addition to the indices shown for each country, indices of production and of employment by categories and divisions of industry have been calculated for the main OECD area totals, using weighted sums of the component country data.

Les tableaux présentés dans les Indicateurs de l'Industrie et des Services peuvent servir de base à l'analyse de la situation des pays Membres de l'OCDE dans les différents secteurs économiques.

Ils comprennent à la fois des indicateurs quantitatifs et des données qualitatives tirées d'enquêtes de conjoncture.

Les indicateurs sont classés par activité économique selon la Classification Internationale Type par Industrie (CITI) adoptée en février 1989 par l'Organisation des Nations Unies (Etudes Statistiques, Série M, n°4, Rév. 3, New York 1990).

Une description détaillée de la CITI révision 3 est présentée aux pages 200 à 206.

Toutes les séries quantitatives et qualitatives de cette édition sont présentées au niveau 2-chiffres de la CITI révision 3. Des données plus détaillées aux niveaux 3 et 4-chiffres de la classification CITI révision 3 sont présentées sur CD-ROM, à partir de janvier 1990, si possible.

Les “informations spécifiques” de la page 9 concernent les statistiques présentées dans la présente publication; les révisions et additions relatives aux données publiées sur le CD-ROM seulement sont sur un fichier séparé qui lui est joint.

Indicateurs quantitatifs

Les statistiques quantitatives retenues pour les secteurs industriels concernent la production, le chiffre d'affaires, les commandes nouvelles, les prix à la production et l'emploi. Pour les secteurs de services, seuls des indicateurs de chiffre d'affaires et d'emploi sont présentés.

Les données de base proviennent de réponses à un questionnaire établi par le Secrétariat de l'OCDE et sont fournies soit sous forme d'indices soit en valeur ou volume.

Les statistiques sont présentées sous la forme d'indices en base 1995 = 100, avec une décimale, pour faciliter les comparaisons entre pays.

Le Secrétariat a effectué les calculs nécessaires à la conversion en indices des données soumises par les pays en valeur ou volume et au rebasement sur 1995 des indices fournis sur une autre base.

Outre les indices par pays, des indices de production et d'emploi par catégories et divisions de l'industrie ont été calculés pour les principaux groupes de pays de l'OCDE, à l'aide de sommes pondérées par l'importance de chaque pays constituant la zone.

Unless otherwise specified, only the countries for which indices are individually shown in the tables are taken into account when calculating area total indices.

In order to publish indices for area totals, estimates are calculated for countries that have not provided data for the most recent periods. However, if the sum of the weights relating to missing countries exceeds 25% of the area total, the index is not shown.

In tables relating to production and to employment indices, the figures shown in the column "Weights in 1995" correspond to the share of each country to the OECD total in the industrial sector under review.

Tables in pages 216 and 217 show first the percentage share of various branches in total industry for each OECD country in 1995 and secondly the percentage share of each country in total OECD by industrial branch in 1995.

All tables show the percentage growth rate of the last period over the corresponding period of the previous year.

Brief footnotes indicate the main differences between national coverage and ISIC definitions.

The unadjusted production indices of the countries are adjusted for inequality in the number of working days in the month, except for Australia, Canada, Czech Republic, Denmark, France, Hungary, Ireland, Korea, Mexico, New Zealand, Poland, Spain, Switzerland, Turkey and United Kingdom.

Some methodological information on the industrial production indices shown is given on pages 207 to 211 after the tables.

Seasonally adjusted indices of industrial production, turnover in services and employment, compiled either by the countries or by the Secretariat using the X12-Arima version of Method-II of the United States Bureau of the Census, are included for ISIC categories and divisions.

Seasonally adjusted indices of turnover and new orders are also shown for total manufacturing industries (D).

Price indices are generally producer indices. Wholesale price indices are, however, shown for the following countries: Austria, Ireland, Japan and Turkey.

The indices of employment cover, generally, the total number of employees. Some countries give information relating to the total number of wage earners: Hungary, Korea and Turkey.

Sauf indication contraire, seuls les pays pour lesquels des indices sont présentés individuellement dans les tableaux sont pris en compte pour le calcul des indices relatifs aux groupes de pays.

Afin de présenter des indices par groupe de pays, des estimations sont calculées pour les pays qui n'ont pas transmis de données pour les dernières périodes. Cependant si la somme des poids des pays manquants excède 25% du total de la zone, l'indice n'est pas publié.

Dans les tableaux relatifs aux indices de production et d'emploi, les nombres inscrits dans la colonne "Poids en 1995" représentent la part de chacun des pays dans le total des pays de l'OCDE dans le secteur industriel considéré.

Les tableaux pages 216 et 217 montrent, l'un, la part relative des diverses branches dans l'industrie totale dans chaque pays de l'OCDE en 1995, l'autre, la part relative de chaque pays dans l'ensemble de l'OCDE pour chaque branche industrielle en 1995.

Les tableaux comprennent tous des taux de variation comparant la dernière période connue à la période correspondante de l'année précédente.

Des notes succinctes en bas de page indiquent les différences principales entre la couverture nationale et les définitions de la CITI.

Les indices de production bruts des pays sont corrigés des jours ouvrables dans le mois sauf pour l'Australie, le Canada, la Corée, le Danemark, l'Espagne, la France, la Hongrie, l'Irlande, le Mexique, la Nouvelle-Zélande, la Pologne, la République tchèque, le Royaume-Uni, la Suisse et la Turquie.

Des informations méthodologiques brèves sur les indices de production industrielle présentés sont données après les tableaux aux pages 207 à 211.

Des indices de production industrielle, de chiffre d'affaires dans les services et d'emploi, corrigés des variations saisonnières, soit par les pays soit par le Secrétariat à l'aide de la version X-12 Arima de la Méthode-II du Bureau of the Census des Etats-Unis, sont présentés par catégories et divisions de la CITI.

Sont aussi publiés pour l'industrie manufacturière (D) des indices de chiffre d'affaires et de nouvelles commandes, corrigés des variations saisonnières.

Les indices de prix correspondent en général aux prix à la production. Les pays suivants, cependant, fournissent des prix de gros : l'Autriche, l'Irlande, le Japon et la Turquie.

Quant aux indices d'emploi, ils couvrent en général le nombre total de salariés. Quelques pays transmettent des informations relatives au nombre d'ouvriers : la Corée, la Hongrie et la Turquie.

Business Tendency Survey Data

These data, which still relate to manufacturing sectors only (at the 2-digit level of ISIC revision 3), enable tendencies to be assessed in concepts difficult to measure using traditional quantitative statistical techniques.

The use of both quantitative data such as those presented above and business survey data together provides a more comprehensive description of economic activity. Use of both types of data is being made more and more frequently in OECD countries for analysing short-term economic developments taking into account anticipations on future events.

Data relating to countries from the European Union (EU), derived from the joint harmonised EU surveys, are not anymore transmitted by the European Commission. When possible, they have been obtained by the OECD Secretariat directly from countries.

For five over the six indicators shown in the tables, which can in present circumstances be most readily used for intercountry studies, questions ask either for the respondents' judgement on factors on the current situation or for their assessment of the direction of short-term changes in the following variables:

Judgements on stocks of finished goods
Judgements on orderbooks
Total order inflow
Production prospects
Labour force expectations.

In these three-fold alternative questions (positive, negative and neutral answers), two types of answers, balance and equals (slightly shaded and to the right), are presented in order to give the reader fuller information.

The sixth indicator concerns Capacity utilisation. The question form selected for this publication enables the provision of exact figures relating to the present rate of capacity utilisation rather than a judgement or an assessment.

The tables generally show monthly data, except when the questions (or the surveys) are asked quarterly. In every case, results are attributed to the month of the survey.

In the majority of OECD countries respondents to surveys are asked to adjust their replies to compensate for normal seasonal fluctuations. Experience has shown however that respondents are only able to do this partially and that a residual seasonal element is therefore normally present in the data.

Further methodological information regarding the concepts and methods used are given on pages 213 to 215 after the tables in order to assist analysts and to provide guidance in their use in international comparisons.

Données tirées d'enquêtes de conjoncture

Ces données, qui ne concernent encore que les secteurs manufacturiers (au niveau 2-chiffres de la CITI révision 3), permettent d'évaluer les tendances sous certains aspects difficiles à mesurer à l'aide des statistiques quantitatives classiques.

L'utilisation conjointe des données quantitatives comme celles présentées ci-dessus et des données tirées d'enquêtes de conjoncture permet de mieux décrire l'activité économique. Elle est de plus en plus fréquente dans les pays de l'OCDE pour analyser les développements économiques à court terme compte tenu des anticipations quant aux évolutions futures.

Les données des pays de l'Union Européenne (UE) provenant des enquêtes conjointes harmonisées de l'UE ne sont plus transmises par la Commission Européenne. Dans la mesure du possible, le Secrétariat de l'OCDE les reçoit directement des pays.

Pour cinq des six indicateurs présentés qui sont, actuellement, le plus volontiers utilisés pour des études internationales, les questions portent sur l'opinion des entrepreneurs sur divers éléments de leur situation actuelle ou sur leur appréciation quant au sens de l'évolution à court terme des variables suivantes :

Jugements sur les stocks de produits finis
Jugements sur les carnets de commandes
Volume total des commandes reçues
Perspectives de production
Perspectives d'emploi.

Dans ces questions comportant trois types de réponses (positives, négatives et neutres), les soldes et les égaux (légèrement grisés et à droite) sont présentés dans le but de fournir au lecteur davantage d'informations.

Le sixième indicateur concerne l'utilisation des capacités. Le type de question retenu pour cette publication permet de donner des chiffres précis relatifs au taux actuel d'utilisation des capacités plutôt qu'une opinion ou une appréciation.

Généralement, les tableaux présentent des données mensuelles, sauf lorsque les questions (ou les enquêtes) sont trimestrielles. Dans tous les cas, la réponse est attribuée au mois de l'enquête.

Dans la plupart des pays de l'OCDE, il est demandé aux entreprises interrogées de répondre en tenant compte des variations saisonnières normales. L'expérience prouve cependant qu'elles ne peuvent le faire que partiellement et qu'un élément saisonnier résiduel subsiste dans les réponses fournies.

Des informations complémentaires relatives aux notions et méthodes utilisées sont données après les tableaux aux pages 213 à 215 pour aider les analystes et les guider dans leurs comparaisons internationales.

BUSINESS SURVEY DATA - DONNEES TIREES D'ENQUETES DE CONJONCTURE

Technical Notes – Notes techniques

General characteristics

In most OECD countries, business surveys are carried out either by the national statistical offices or by private research institutes. These surveys have been undertaken long enough to enable more and more analysts to use them in intercountry studies.

A business survey is a method of gathering qualitative information from a number of enterprises. The sample of firms, derived from a frame that reflects the population to be questioned, does not differ much from one period to another. The advantages of using a stable sample are quicker replies and reduced variability of results between successive surveys.

A business survey generally deals with judgements or expectations of managers of firms regarding variables directly related to their specific activities. The respondents are asked, by means of postal questionnaires, to express their opinion on factors relating to their current business situation or to predict developments in specific variables.

The questions included in surveys have to be precise and unambiguous. They are given with a limited choice of alternative answers. However, concepts are usually not clearly defined and room is often left to the respondent to give his own interpretation.

Indicators selected

The six indicators selected are probably those that can be most readily used in intercountry studies.

Two questions ask the entrepreneurs to express their opinion on the actual level of endogenous variables in relation to some ideal level, either normal or satisfactory:

Judgement on stocks of finished goods
Judgement on orderbooks

A typical question of this kind is:

Do you consider the present level of stocks of finished goods (or level of orderbooks)

- Above normal? or Excessive?
- Normal? or About right?
- Below normal? or Too small?

It is however worth noting that the notion of normality is not explained.

Caractéristiques générales

Dans la plupart des pays de l'OCDE, des enquêtes de conjoncture sont réalisées par les offices statistiques nationaux ou des instituts de recherche privés. Ces enquêtes existent depuis suffisamment de temps pour permettre à de plus en plus d'analystes d'utiliser leurs résultats dans des études internationales.

Une enquête de conjoncture est une méthode de collecte d'informations qualitatives auprès d'un certain nombre d'entreprises. L'échantillon de firmes, qui provient d'un cadre qui reflète la population observée, diffère peu d'une période à l'autre. Les avantages qu'on peut retirer d'un échantillon stable sont la rapidité des réponses et la réduction de la variabilité des résultats entre enquêtes successives.

Généralement, une enquête de conjoncture se rapporte à des jugements et à des prévisions de directeurs d'entreprises sur des variables directement liées à leurs activités. Il est demandé par questionnaire postal aux répondants d'exprimer leur opinion sur des facteurs relatifs à leur situation actuelle ou d'anticiper le développement de variables spécifiques.

Les questions qui sont posées dans les enquêtes doivent être précises et sans ambiguïté. Elles sont données avec un choix limité de réponses possibles. Cependant, les concepts ne sont pas toujours clairs et leur interprétation est laissée à l'appréciation du répondant.

Indicateurs retenus

Les six indicateurs retenus sont probablement ceux qui peuvent être le plus facilement utilisés pour des études internationales.

Dans deux questions, il est demandé aux entrepreneurs de donner leur opinion sur le niveau actuel de variables endogènes par rapport à un niveau idéal, soit normal soit satisfaisant :

Jugement sur les stocks de produits finis
Jugements sur les carnets de commandes

Une telle question peut se libeller ainsi :

Considérez-vous le niveau actuel de vos stocks de produits finis (de vos carnets de commandes)

- Supérieur à la normale ? ou Excessif ?
- Normal ? ou Satisfaisant ?
- Inférieur à la normale ? ou Trop faible ?

Il faut cependant noter que la notion de normalité n'est pas expliquée.

Two questions refer to the expected direction of change of variables directly related to the activity of the firm:

Production expectations
Labour expectations.

A typical question of this kind is:

Do you expect that in the three coming months your production (your employment)

- Will increase?
- Will remain stable?
- Will decrease?

One question concerns the direction of change of an endogenous variable in recent past:

Total order inflow.

The question put is:

Were the orders that you received in recent past (or will the orders that you will receive in the three coming months be)

- Up?
- Unchanged?
- Down?

These three last questions refer to variables that also belong to quantitative questionnaires. However, there are two main differences: replies are qualitative and they are available much earlier than quantitative data.

In contrast with the previous types of question, a quantitative question asks the entrepreneurs to state the:

rate of capacity utilisation

This question is put in a variety of ways in the different business tendency surveys conducted in Member countries. The question form selected for this publication enables the provision of exact figures relating to the present rate of capacity utilisation rather than a judgement or an assessment.

Results

Generally weights are applied to answers to reduce the bias resulting from differences in size of enterprises belonging to the sample. In order to improve the quality of the sample, further weights can be used, for example to take into account the importance of the industrial sectors in total value added.

To take into consideration the influence of seasonal factors, managers are asked to carry out adjustments for seasonality when replying to questions and making their choice of alternative responses.

However, past experience with the response practise shows that they are not successful in carrying out such corrections properly and that business survey time series often display characteristic seasonal fluctuations.

Deux questions portent sur le sens de l'évolution attendue de variables directement liées à l'activité de l'entreprise :

Perspectives de production
Perspectives d'emploi

Une telle question peut se libeller ainsi :

Pensez-vous qu'au cours des trois prochains mois votre production (votre emploi)

- Augmentera ?
- Restera stable ?
- Diminuera ?

Une question porte sur le sens de l'évolution d'une variable endogène sur une période récente :

Volume total des commandes reçues

La question est posée de la manière suivante :

Les commandes que vous avez récemment reçues étaient-elles (ou les commandes que vous allez recevoir dans les prochains mois seront-elles)

- En hausse ?
- Inchangées ?
- En baisse ?

Ces trois dernières questions se réfèrent à des variables également présentes dans les questionnaires quantitatifs. Cependant, il existe deux différences : les réponses sont qualitatives et elles sont disponibles beaucoup plus vite que les données quantitatives.

Contrairement aux questions précédentes, une question quantitative est posée aux chefs d'entreprises. Il s'agit du :

taux d'utilisation des capacités

Cette question est posée de plusieurs façons différentes dans les enquêtes de conjoncture des pays Membres. Le type de question retenu pour cette publication permet de donner des chiffres précis relatifs au taux actuel d'utilisation des capacités plutôt qu'une opinion ou une appréciation.

Résultats

Les réponses sont généralement pondérées de manière à réduire le biais qui résulte des différences de taille des entreprises de l'échantillon. Pour améliorer la qualité de ce dernier, d'autres poids peuvent être utilisés, par exemple pour tenir compte de l'importance du secteur industriel dans la valeur ajoutée totale.

Pour prendre en considération l'influence de facteurs saisonniers, il est demandé aux entrepreneurs d'effectuer des ajustements pour tenir compte des variations saisonnières lorsqu'ils répondent aux questions et qu'ils choisissent les alternatives.

L'expérience pratique, cependant, montre qu'ils ne réussissent pas à effectuer ces ajustements correctement et que les séries tirées d'enquêtes de conjoncture présentent souvent des fluctuations saisonnières caractéristiques.

For the question on the rate of capacity utilisation, a precise figure is sought. It is presented as a weighted percentage.

The five other qualitative questions selected by OECD have three alternative reply options: a positive answer (increase, or above normal or excessive), a negative answer (decrease, or under normal, or too small) and a neutral answer (no change, or normal, or about right).

Two types of answers are presented in the publication: the balance which corresponds to the difference between the positive and the negative weighted percentages of replies and the equals which indicates the weighted percentage of neutral answers. This allows the recalculation of all three percentages.

Use of Business Survey Results

As information provided by business surveys essentially deals with opinions and anticipations, they are often used in conjunction with quantitative statistics in various types of short-term economic analysis and in forecasting.

Time series of business survey results are not designed to replace traditional quantitative data. However, they can be used and combined to interpret changes in the current economic situation. Furthermore, because they are rapidly available, following the end of the reference period, they can also be included in econometric models for forecasting purposes.

Pour la question sur le taux d'utilisation des capacités, il est demandé un chiffre précis qui est présenté sous forme de pourcentage pondéré.

Les cinq autres questions qualitatives retenues par l'OCDE présentent trois réponses alternatives : une réponse positive (en hausse, supérieur à la normale ou excessif), une réponse négative (en baisse, inférieur à la normale ou trop faible) et une réponse neutre (stable, normal ou satisfaisant).

Deux types de réponses sont présentés dans la publication : la balance qui correspond à la différence entre les pourcentages pondérés des réponses positives et négatives et les égaux qui indiquent le pourcentage pondéré des réponses neutres. Cela permet de recalculer les trois pourcentages.

Utilisation des résultats d'enquêtes de conjoncture

Les informations fournies par les enquêtes de conjoncture ayant essentiellement trait à des opinions et à des anticipations, elles sont souvent utilisées en conjonction avec les statistiques quantitatives dans de nombreuses analyses économiques à court terme et pour les prévisions.

Les séries temporelles de résultats d'enquêtes de conjoncture ne remplaceront pas les données quantitatives traditionnelles. Elles peuvent cependant être utilisées et combinées pour interpréter l'évolution de la situation économique. En outre, grâce à leur rapide disponibilité après la période de référence, elles peuvent également être introduites dans des modèles de prévision économétriques.
