

Chapter 1

The activities of National Contact Points

The main role of the NCPs of governments adhering to the Guidelines is to further their effectiveness by undertaking promotional activities, handling enquiries, and contributing to the resolution of issues that arise from the alleged non-observance of the Guidelines in specific instances. This chapter reviews NCP activities as well as other implementation activities undertaken by adhering governments over the June 2012-June 2013 reporting period.

NCP organisation: Increased involvement of government officials, experts and stakeholders

Structure, innovations and reforms ahead

As in 2012, National Contact Points¹ are mainly located within the governmental departments in charge of economic and financial issues, or of foreign affairs.² And the monopartite structure remains the most popular option (see Figure 1.1):

Source: Author's calculations.

- Monopartite: The NCP is composed of one or more representatives of one Ministry.

Argentina, Australia, Austria, Chile, Colombia, Czech Republic, Estonia, Greece, Hungary, Iceland, Israel, Italy, Mexico, New Zealand, Peru, Poland, Slovak Republic, Spain, Turkey, United States.

- Interagency: The NCP is composed of one or more representatives of two or more Ministries.

Brazil, Canada, Germany, Japan, Morocco, Portugal, Slovenia, Switzerland, United Kingdom.

- Bipartite: The NCP is composed of one or more representatives of Ministry/ Ministries and of representative/s of business association/s or trade union/s.

Egypt.

- Tripartite: the NCP is composed of one or more representatives of Ministry/ Ministries, business association/s and trade union/s.

Belgium, France, Latvia, Sweden, Tunisia.

- Quadripartite: The NCP is composed of one or more representatives of Ministry/ Ministries, business association/s, trade union/s and non-governmental organisation/s.

Finland.

- Independent Expert Body: The NCP includes independent experts.

Denmark, Korea, Netherlands, Norway.

At the same time, compared to 2012, there has been an increase in the number of NCPs which opt to include either more governmental departments, as in the case of Morocco – which moved from a mono-partite to an interagency structure – or independent experts, as in the Danish and the Korean cases, which previously had respectively a tripartite and an interagency structure. Over a third of NCPs (especially those with a monopartite structure) are assisted by an advisory body composed of government and/or civil society representatives.

In the MENA region, the Egyptian NCP resumed its activities and the Tunisian NCP has prepared its first report on the implementation of the Guidelines.

Several NCPs engaged in improving their organisation structure and working arrangements. The United States NCP has entered into a co-operative agreement with the State Department and the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service (FMCS), an independent US federal agency. The FMCS will make its mediators available to support of the NCP mediation efforts in specific instances. The NCPs of Brazil and Switzerland have completed a review of their structures, a process started in 2011; Brazil and France NCPs have published a revision of their internal procedures in July 2012.

Fifteen NCPs dispose of an allocated budget, and 21 of a dedicated staff. Belgium's NCP is expected to benefit from one additional staff working half time, and Switzerland of one additional staff.

Looking ahead, Belgium is considering the creation of a multi-stakeholder advisory body; the Czech NCP is considering the adoption of a quadripartite structure and the bipartite Egypt NCP may change to a quadripartite structure, with the inclusion of business associations and NGOs. In Portugal, the elaboration of an integrated strategy for CSR policies under the EU Action Agenda 2011-14 may also lead to changes in the Portuguese NCP. The transformation of Spain's NCP structure from a monopartite to an interagency structure is well under way: this new NCP will also be supported by an advisory body composed of business, trade unions and NGOs representatives. The United Kingdom will conduct a review of the NCP

Steering Board in late 2013 or early 2014. Finally, the European Union¹ is exploring ways to expand the intra-Commission work related to CSR and NCP.

Focus: New and reformed NCPs

Box 1.1. The reform of the Danish NCP: Mediation and Complaints-Handling Institution for RBC

In June 2012 the Danish Parliament passed a law (ACT No. 546) reforming the NCP. The provisions entered into force on 1 November 2012.

Structure and composition of the NCP: The Danish NCP structure was modified, from a tripartite body to a mix of tripartite structure and independent expert body without ministerial representation. The NCP consists of a chairman – Mr Mads Øvlisen, former head of the Danish Council for CSR and former CEO of Novo Nordisk – and representatives from the Confederation of Danish Industries, the Danish Confederation of Trade Unions, the Danish 92 Group (NGO's) and an expert member with knowledge on human rights. The Secretariat comprises three people and is located in the Danish Business Authority. The new NCP has an allocated budget of DKK 3 million a year.

Handling of specific instances: With reference to cases of non-observance of the Guidelines, the NCP mandate includes acting and investigating by own initiative, not only when a specific instance is submitted to the NCP. Also, the law lists in detail all possible entities involved in a possible violation of the Guidelines, including:

- Danish private or public company, or the company business associates.
 - Danish government or regional authorities, or the authorities business associates.
 - Danish private or public organisations, or the organisations' business partners.
- Egypt: Egypt reports having reactivated its NCP, which is located in the Ministry of Investment. It also reported that the NCP is assisted by an advisory body composed of government agencies or experts on the different topics covered by the Guidelines: the ministries of Foreign Affairs, Trade and Industry; State for Administrative Development; Finance; Labour; State for Environmental Affairs; Egyptian Trade Union; and Egyptian National Competitiveness Council. The latter is an independent policy advisory body set up by several Egyptian businessmen, academia, and partner organisations and focuses primarily on the issue of competitiveness, the subjects of inclusive and balanced growth, social justice and equal opportunities.

- Korea: Korea's NCP has been transferred from the Ministry of Trade, Industry and Energy – Foreign Investment Subcommittee to a civil organisation – the Korean Commercial Arbitration Board (KCAB) – which is independent from the government. The members of the Korean NCP will be chosen following recommendation of specialised government departments and relevant institutions. The KCAB acts as the executive office of the NCP. The Ministry of Trade, Industry and Energy covers the operational expenses.
- Morocco: In March 2013 the NCP expanded into an interagency structure chaired and serviced by the Agence Marocaine de Développement des Investissements. It is composed of representatives of departments and public institutions that have specific competencies in relation to the Guidelines, namely: Ministère des Affaires Étrangères et de la Coopération; ministère de l'Économie et des Finances; Ministère de l'Enseignement Supérieur, de la Recherche Scientifique et de la Formation des Cadres; Ministère de l'Énergie, des Mines, de l'Eau et de l'Environnement; Ministère de l'Emploi et de la Formation Professionnelle; Ministère de l'Industrie, du Commerce et des Nouvelles Technologies; Ministère chargé des Affaires Générales et de la Gouvernance; Conseil National des Droits de l'Homme; Instance Centrale de Prévention de la Corruption and Conseil de la Concurrence.
- Tunisia: In conformity with the obligation under the OECD Declaration on International Investment and Multinational Enterprises, signed in June 2012, Tunisia established a National Contact Point for the Guidelines. The NCP has a tripartite structure comprised of representatives from government, trade union (Union Générale Tunisienne du Travail) and business (Union Tunisienne de l'Industrie, du Commerce et de l'Artisanat).

Advisory bodies: The new multi-stakeholder board in Switzerland

A third of reporting NCPs have established an advisory body – Australia, Austria, Chile, Czech Republic, Colombia, Egypt, Germany, Israel, Italy, New Zealand, Switzerland (see Box 1.2), United Kingdom and the United States. The advisory bodies of Australia, Colombia and the United Kingdom perform both advisory and oversight functions. About half of the NCPs with a monopartite structure have created advisory bodies in order to include the views of stakeholders in their activities.

More specifically, the Czech NCP, based in the Ministry of Industry and Trade works in co-operation with other government agencies, as well as business, social and non-governmental organisations interested in the field of responsible business conduct. The German NCP, based in the Ministry of Economics and Technology, holds regular meetings with the Ministerial Group on the Guidelines and the Working Party on the Guidelines. The latter includes representatives of ministries, business organisations, trade unions and NGOs and convenes once a year to discuss current issues related to the Guidelines, methods to improve their dissemination and the NCP's working methods. In New Zealand, the NCP maintains an advisory Liaison Group comprised of representatives from organisations with an interest in the Guidelines, including business, trade unions and government officials.

In Chile, the monopartite NCP recently invited various government agencies to be part of its Advisory Body. It is currently processing official answers to this request. Once in place, the Advisory Body will have access to the expert opinion of several government areas, with the stated mandate of facilitating NCP analysis, understanding and resolutions of specific instances. It has also established a separate oversight multi-stakeholder body.

Oversight bodies: Australian and Chilean innovations

Bodies with oversight responsibilities are reported mainly by monopartite NCPs (Chile, Hungary, Israel and Spain), the German interagency NCP and the Egyptian bipartite NCP.³ Structures and functions vary widely however: from an ad hoc body with stakeholders in the Chilean and Israeli cases, to a designated government body, as in the cases of the Hungarian OECD National Council and the Spanish Ministry of Economy and Competitiveness.

In November 2012, the Australian NCP established an oversight committee, which is chaired by the NCP and includes representatives from relevant Commonwealth Government agencies and may call upon external experts as appropriate. The Committee has a dual role in providing advice in addition to providing oversight to the complaints process.

The new Civil Society Committee of the Chilean NCP held its first official meeting on 24 April 2013. The Committee is composed of non-governmental organisations, university experts in responsible business conduct, trade

Box 1.2. Switzerland multi-stakeholder advisory board

Following the update of the Guidelines in May 2011, Switzerland conducted an evaluation of its NCP. On 1 May 2013, the Swiss Federal Council adopted a decree modifying the structure and functioning of the Swiss NCP and establishing a multi-stakeholder advisory board. The decree entered into force on 1 June 2013 and currently provides the legal basis for the activities of the NCP.

The establishment of a multi-stakeholder advisory board is designed to enable the Swiss NCP to build upon and consult the expertise of other governmental offices and external stakeholders in the performance of its duties.

Composition: The multi-stakeholder advisory board is composed of 14 representatives from different stakeholder groups, namely employer associations, trade unions, business associations, NGOs and academia. Each group has 2 representatives. The Federal Department of Foreign Affairs FDFA (political direction, development agency) and the Federal Department of Economic Affairs, Education and Research EAER (labour direction, international trade direction) can also nominate two representatives each. The Board is co-chaired by State Secretary Marie-Gabrielle Ineichen-Fleisch, Director of the State Secretariat of Economic Affairs, and Professor Christine Kaufmann, Chair for Constitutional and Administrative Law and for European and International Law of the University of Zurich.

Functions: The advisory board advises the NCP on its strategic orientation as well as on the implementation of the Guidelines and the procedural Guidelines of the NCP according to the core criteria of visibility, accessibility, transparency and accountability. The board is also mandated to advise the Swiss NCP on specific procedural issues, such as co-operation with other NCPs and with stakeholders. In addition, the board will be consulted on various issues such as modifications of the published procedural Guidelines of the NCP, changes of the mandate of the internal working groups of the federal administration that handle specific instances, the selection of external mediators, the annual report of the Swiss NCP, and promotional activities. The board will be informed about the handling of specific instances (state of the proceedings, appointment of an internal working group of the federal administration for specific instances) but it will not be directly involved in the procedures.

The Swiss Federal Council has confirmed the role of the NCP to solve specific instances according to the provisions of the Guidelines. Specific instances will be handled by internal working groups of the federal administration created for this purpose.

unions and business associations. Regular meetings will be scheduled with the purpose of exchanging information about the work of the NCP, handling enquiries and enhance the knowledge of Guidelines.

Reporting within governments

Two thirds of the reporting NCPs report their activities to their own governments. For example, the Argentina NCP produces regular reports and the US NCP informs monthly the Office of the Assistant Secretary of State for Economic and Business Affairs. Information on NCP activities is also included in reports prepared in the ministry or department where the NCP is located (Australia, Belgium, Brazil, Canada, Colombia, Greece, Finland, Italy, Korea, Mexico, Peru, Poland, Portugal, Slovak Republic, Sweden, Switzerland, Tunisia, United Kingdom). The Dutch NCP transmits its annual report, as well as the findings of its final statements, to the Ministry of Foreign Trade and Co-operation. The New Zealand NCP is required to report on specific instances to the Minister of Commerce.

In Germany, the NCP does not bear any obligation for a regular reporting. At the same time, as an integrated part of the government, it is accountable to parliament, hence subject to the control of the Bundestag (Federal Lower House of Parliament). Within this framework, individual members or parliamentary groups have the right to ask oral and written questions with regard to the NCP activities. The German NCP has answered several questions, especially during the update process of the Guidelines. The Norwegian NCP reports administratively to the Norwegian Ministry Foreign Affairs and since 2013, minutes from these meetings are made available online.

NCPs also report regularly to their advisory or oversight bodies (the Austrian NCP Steering committee, the Egyptian NCP Advisory Body, the US NCP Interagency Working Group), to ad hoc bodies (the Danish CSR Council, the Hungarian OECD National Council, the Latvian OECD Consultative Board), or to parliaments (Australia, Belgium, Colombia, Italy, Netherlands, Switzerland). Some NCPs reports to parliament voluntarily (Norway) or upon request (Korea, Switzerland).

Additionally, the following NCPs make their annual reports to the OECD available online: Australia, Austria, Belgium, Brazil, Canada, Colombia, Denmark, Estonia, France, Germany, Hungary, Italy, Israel, Latvia, Morocco, Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, Portugal, Slovenia, Switzerland, United Kingdom and United States.

Information and promotion activities: New tools and increased co-operative efforts

NCPs have continued to prioritise communication and promotion of the updated Guidelines to further their effective implementation. Many NCPs have stepped up their efforts to develop new promotional tools, produce and distribute widely new materials on the Guidelines, organised or participated in raising awareness events, and engage with government agencies and leading RBC initiatives to promote policy coherence on responsible business conduct. Bilateral consultations and several regional events, notably in Latin America, have helped build NCP capacity.

Also, the communication on CSR adopted by the European Commission in October 2011 “A renewed EU strategy 2011-14 for Corporate Social Responsibility” encourages large companies to take into account the Guidelines when developing their policies on CSR, and announces the intention of the Commission to monitor the commitments to respect international CSR principles and guidelines, made by European enterprises with more than 1 000 employees.

Box 1.3. The first year of Colombia's NCP

The official launch of Colombia's NCP took place on 13 June 2012. Since then, the NCP worked extensively to make the Guidelines known and available by all different means, as well as raise awareness on the implementation procedures:

The NCP has dedicated web pages – where the Guidelines and the annual report can be accessed – which received 1 215 visits between June 2012 and June 2013. In 2012, the NCP reviewed and adapted the Spanish translation of the Guidelines and distributed 1 000 printed copies. The NCP also developed a brochure on the Guidelines in Spanish.

The NCP has a comprehensive promotional plan, which includes working in close collaboration with government agencies, including Proexport – the investment promotion agency – and embassies. It also supported the efforts of the government to draft a set of guidelines to attract sustainable investment, which resulted in an action plan on this subject. From June 2012 to June 2013, the NCP organised or participated in 20 regional and international events. Concerning the Due Diligence Guidance, Colombia leads a pilot project for the implementation of the Gold Supplement in the country.

The NCP developed a strong working relationship with several OECD partners and leading RBC instruments, including the UN Global Compact, the National Institution for the Protection and Promotion of Human Rights, the GRI, ISO26000 and the Group of Friends of Paragraph 47.

NCPs that have a promotional plan are: Argentina, Austria, Belgium, Brazil, Canada, Chile, Colombia (see Box 1.3), Denmark, Egypt, Finland, France, Germany, Iceland, Italy, Japan, Korea, Latvia, Morocco (see Box 1.4), Mexico, Netherlands, Norway, New Zealand, Poland, Portugal, Spain, Switzerland, United Kingdom and United States.

The Guidelines translated in 25 languages

The OECD translated the Guidelines into Chinese and Russian and coordinated the preparation of a commonly agreed version of the Guidelines by all Spanish NCPs. Arabic,⁴ Danish, Estonian, Latvian versions of the Guidelines were also released in 2013 by NCPs. Iceland is currently working on the Icelandic version of the Guidelines.

The Guidelines are available in print and online, in 25 languages: Arabic, Chinese, Czech, Danish, Dutch, English, Estonian, Finnish, French, German, Greek, Hebrew, Hungarian, Italian, Japanese, Korean, Latvian, Norwegian, Polish, Portuguese, Russian, Slovak, Slovene, Spanish and Swedish.

Promotional plans and new tools – selected examples

- Australia's NCP has developed a brochure and a standard presentation which is given to external bodies to promote awareness of the Guidelines. The NCP's website receives approximately 300 unique visitors per month.
- Austria's NCP is developing a brochure in co-operation with respACT, Austria's leading platform for CSR and Sustainable Development. The NCP distributed numerous copies of the German version of the Guidelines to companies, universities and other stakeholders.
- Prior to the 2011 Egyptian revolution, Egypt's NCP had an ambitious plan for promoting the Guidelines that involved contacting business community, different chambers of commerce and labour organisations to inform them about the Guidelines and the NCP's activities. Those activities were interrupted in 2011 and the NCP is now planning to resume its activities by disseminating the updated Guidelines.

- In 2012, the Hellenic NCP published a new informational brochure on the 2011 Guidelines, in Greek. In addition to an introduction to the Guidelines (and links to the online full text of them), it provides information concerning the Hellenic NCP and the procedures for handling specific instances.

The Guidelines and the role of the NCP were also noted in the report "US Government's Approach on Business and Human Rights" released in May 2013.

Box 1.4. Morocco's NCP action plan for 2013: Focus on promotion

Selected events organised by NCPs and national stakeholders⁵

NCPs organised, hosted or participated in over 160 events, a significantly higher number in comparison to the last implementation period. Conferences, workshops, roundtables or other events aimed to create a dialogue on the Guidelines and raise awareness of the NCP's role and procedures. Many events were directly organised by national business associations, trades unions, NGOs or other stakeholders, which confirms the interest from the public on these issues:

- Brazil's NCP has regularly promoted the Guidelines at events organised by different stakeholders including the Forum of the Employers Confederations – Executive Branch, the National Confederation of Financial Institutions and the National Labour Relations Board.
- Officials of the eight departments and agencies that comprise Canada's NCP identified and coordinated their participation in a variety of promotional activities and outreach initiatives in various fora where the Guidelines and the NCP's role have been discussed or referenced to. These fora included the second annual multi-stakeholder information session hosted by the NCP in November 2012, workshop sessions and information provided at the annual Prospectors and Developers Association of Canada International Convention in Toronto in March 2013, 49 regional and country initiatives and various speaking engagements in international and domestic fora.
- The launching of the new Denmark's NCP took place on 1 November 2012 at the Ministry of Business and Growth. The NCP later held a series of events to explain further its structure and implementation procedures to different stakeholders such as the Confederation of Danish Industries, the Danish Federation of SMEs, the Danish Confederation of Trade Unions, 92-Group NGOs and Danish Auditors.
- In the aftermath of the Bangladesh factory Rana Plaza collapse on 24 April 2013, France's Minister for Foreign Trade Nicole Bricq wrote to the French NCP to review a number of issues relating to this drama. The Minister also met with the French NCP and stakeholders on 23 May 2013, to identify effective ways to raise the environmental and social performance of investors in Bangladesh. In addition, in her closing remarks at the inaugural Global Forum on 26-27 June 2013 Minister Bricq reiterated the urgency for concrete action to ensure similar tragedies never happen again.
- Israel's NCP hosted a conference with the Manufacturers Association on the OECD requirements concerning corporate responsibility and foreign bribery. The conference focused on trends in the global arena and implications for businesses.

- Korea's NCP participated in a regional CSR Forum organised in April 2013 by the Korean Chamber of Commerce and Industry to raise awareness of the Guidelines, which was an opportunity for the NCP to introduce past CSR cases to corporations that were planning to invest in Asia and Africa.
- Netherlands's NCP organised thematic events in The Hague that brought together various stakeholders (businesses, NGOs, etc.) to discuss and share experiences on different topics related to the Guidelines. Specific sessions focused on freedom of association and transparency.
- In March 2013, Slovenia's NCP participated in the 8th International Conference of the Institute for Development of Social Responsibility devoted to social responsibility in the fields of education and communication.
- In May 2013, Tunisia's NCP presented the Guidelines at a seminar organised by the trade union Union Générale des Travailleurs de Tunisie.

Raising awareness through the embassies – selected examples

- France's RBC Ambassador, also member of the French NCP promoted the Guidelines at various conferences in Asia and Africa (China, Singapore, Senegal, Ivory Coast and Lebanon). In July 2012, the Ambassador took part in a commercial mission to Myanmar with 35 French companies and presented the Guidelines to the leader of the opposition, the Burmese Chamber of Commerce, and different NGOs. In March 2013, the French Minister for Development Pascal Canfin recommended to the Myanmar government to consider the establishment of an "NCP-like" body to relate with NCPs of adhering country investors in Myanmar.
- Norway's NCP co-operates with the Norwegian Ministry of Foreign Affairs to provide Norwegian embassies with information about the Guidelines and the NCPs.
- Japan's NCP sent information on the updated Guidelines to 233 overseas' establishments such as the Japanese embassies and consulate-generals. The NCP also closely collaborated with those establishments for contacting parties and collecting information in relation to specific instances.
- Sweden's NCP provided a toolkit to Swedish embassies in order to promote CSR in emerging markets and other-non adhering countries.
- United Kingdom sent training material on the Guidelines to all British embassy staff as part of the United Kingdom's NCP awareness raising programme. In 2012-13 the United Kingdom's NCP worked very closely to support the launch the Colombia's NCP via the UK embassy staff in Bogota.

Surveys and data collection

An increasing number of NCPs have started conducting surveys and collecting data documenting enterprises' awareness and use of the Guidelines:

- Argentina's NCP is working with "Fundación El Otro" on an assessment tool to monitor the enterprises' compliance with the Guidelines.
- In Denmark, in January 2013 the NCP had a survey conducted on the general knowledge of the Guidelines and the NCP. The survey showed that of 417 interviewed companies, 23% had knowledge of the Guidelines and 16% of the NCP.
- Italy's NCP developed a project to promote the Guidelines in the jewellery sector and carried out a survey among enterprises in this field. Italy's NCP further discussed RBC challenges at different events, focusing in particular on traceability issues in the jewellery industry.
- Norway's NCP conducted an annual survey among 600 companies on awareness of the Guidelines and the NCP complaint mechanism. The data showed that the proportion of Norwegian business leaders in companies with international operations that is familiar with the Guidelines has increased from one in ten in 2011 to six in ten in 2012. In 2012, the NCP also conducted a survey amongst company union representatives that are board members of Norwegian companies, and another survey amongst Civil Society Organisations (CSOs) and trade unions. A follow-up meeting was organised in October 2012 on the results. The feedback showed that many interested parties want further guidance on the use of the Guidelines. Among CSOs and trade unions, four in five are familiar with the Guidelines, but few enter into dialogues with companies regarding the Guidelines.
- Poland's NCP conducted the campaign "I implement the OECD Guidelines" which included a survey that measured the extent to which featured companies are complying with their obligations under the Guidelines.

In the context of free trade agreements (FTA) between the EU and its trading partners, the European Commission seeks to establish regular exchanges of information and co-operation on CSR and accountability, in particular with regard to the effective implementation and follow-up of internationally recognised CSR principles and guidelines, including the Guidelines. The recent EU FTAs with Korea, Central America and Peru and Colombia contain provisions to this end.

Focus: Co-operation at national and international level

At national level, the vast majority of NCPs⁶ coordinated with other government activities related to RBC, in particular:

- Brazil's NCP is actively engaged in the activities of the Government Forum for Social Responsibility. The NCP was frequently invited to meetings and discussions related to CSR within the government.
- As part of Canada's overall CSR Strategy for the Extractive Sector, Canada's NCP coordinates with other elements of the strategy, particularly the Office of the CSR Counsellor for the Extractive Sector.
- Since 2012, Chile's NCP has been working with other government agencies in the creation of a public policy on CSR issues. This initiative has been developed under the leadership of the Ministry of Economy. A proposal was presented to the President of Chile in January 2013, which resulted in the creation of an Advisory Body on Social Responsibility to the Minister of Economy, of which the NCP is a member.
- In Estonia, the NCP led the process for the development of a national CSR plan.
- Hungary's NCP was involved in the elaboration of the Hungarian CSR Action Plan for 2013-14.
- Within the framework of the EU Strategy on CSR, Portugal's NCP is working on an integrated national strategy that will include reference to the Guidelines. Portugal's NCP intends to co-operate closely with government entities and relevant stakeholders in the implementation of this strategy.
- The Swiss NCP invited a consultative group, which included several representatives of social partners, employer organisations, multinational enterprises, NGOs as well as several government agencies, for a meeting on 27 June 2012. This meeting was an opportunity to promote the Guidelines and present the ongoing work of the OECD and the NCPs with regard to the proactive agenda.

Several NCPs⁷ also engaged at international level, with OECD partner organisations and/or other RBC instruments. In particular:

- Brazil's NCP was invited to speak at the at a side-event organised by the UN Human Rights Council core group on Business and Human Rights that focused on access to remedy through non-judicial grievance mechanisms. The event was part of the 23rd Regular Session of the UN Human Rights Council in May 2013.
- German's NCP relates to the ILO, UN Global Compact, the National Institution for the Protection and Promotion of Human Rights, ISO26000 and other, within the German governmental action plan on CSR. The instruments are seen as mutually reinforcing each other. The Federal Government emphasizes the important of the Guidelines, the ILO Tripartite Declaration and the UN Global Compact whenever suitable, for example in the context of the G8/G20.

- New-Zealand's NCP provided information on the Guidelines for the New Zealand delegation's presentation to the Committee on the United Nations Convention on the Elimination of Racial Discrimination in February 2013.
- United States' NCP acted as a moderator in a panel comprised of representatives from BIAC, TUAC, OECD Watch and OECD Secretariat that focused on the first year of implementing the updated Guidelines. The event was part of the World Bank/IMF Civil Society Forum that took place in April 2013.

In the reporting period, a significant number of NCPs reported having organised or participated in awareness-raising events with peer NCPs. This is particularly true for Latin America.

- Throughout the reporting cycle, Canada and Colombia's NCPs collaborated on the establishment, structure, and sharing of best practices relevant to the latter's new offices and participated in outreach and promotion of their newly established offices inaugurated in June 2012. In May 2013, a dialogue on the Dutch and Colombian experiences regarding best practices and CSR was conducted in Bogota.
- At the request of the United States' NCP, Canada's and Norway's NCPs offered lessons learned and best practices on mediation and voluntary dispute resolution to the US NCP Stakeholder Advisory Board in January 2013.
- In April 2013, NCPs and the OECD Secretariat were invited by Canada's NCP to participate in an international experts workshop on non-judicial access to remedy, co-sponsored by the UN Working Group on Business and Human Rights, and Canada's CSR Counsellor for the Extractive Sector, in Toronto (see Box 1.5).
- In March 2013, the Institute for Human Rights and Business (IHRB) held with the UK Department for Business, Innovation and Skills a second workshop⁸ on the role of NCPs with regard to the Extractive Sector. The event was attended by the NCPs of Austria, Belgium, Canada, Denmark, Netherlands, Norway, Sweden, Switzerland and the UK as well as by various stakeholders such as TUAC, OECD Watch, Amnesty International and ITUC.
- An international workshop focusing on RBC took place in Brazil on 28 January 2013. This workshop was a joint initiative by Brazil, Norway and United Kingdom NCPs, with the collaboration of the Netherlands' NCP. In December 2012, Brazil and Netherlands' NCPs jointly organised and participated in different events in Brazil to promote the Guidelines and discuss the role of NCPs (see Box 1.6).
- Chile and Norway's NCPs, supported by the Norwegian Ministry of Foreign Affairs and the Norwegian embassy in Santiago de Chile, jointly held a

Toronto, 29-30 April 2013

The UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights provide a global authoritative standard* for States and business to take preventative actions to avoid negative business impacts on people. Impacts, however, may occur and when they do, affected persons have the right to remedy. The UN Guiding Principles promote greater access to remedy: non-judicial grievance mechanisms – like NCPs – complement and can, at times, supplement judicial mechanisms.

Within this framework, the UN Working Group and the Government of Canada, with the collaboration of the Office of the Extractive Sector Corporate Social Responsibility Counsellor of Canada, organised an international workshop that brought together different practitioner networks and strands of work on non-judicial remedy, to help gain a better collective awareness and understanding of the wider system of remedy, identify issues that need further inquiry and guidance in order to achieve the implementation of the Guiding Principles, as well as contribute to address common misperceptions about non-judicial grievance mechanisms.

The meeting was co-chaired by the UN Working Group expert, Ms Alexandra Guáqueta, and Ms Marketa Evans, Extractive Sector Corporate Social Responsibility Counsellor Canada.

seminar on November 2012, with the participation of Peru’s NCP, to discuss opportunities and challenges for Chilean investors on topics that relate to the Guidelines with 130 participants from the private sector, trade unions, NGOs, academia and government agencies. The seminar was also an opportunity to present Chile and Norway’s joint NCP statement on the Cermaq case.

- In November 2012, Chile, Peru, Mexico, Colombia’s NCPs and Costa Rica participated in a workshop on the particular and common challenges encountered by Latin American NCPs. Norway’s NCP was also attending and presented its institutional evolution and own challenges.

Box 1.6. International Workshop “The OECD Guidelines for responsible business conduct: Building Multilateral Co-operation with the OECD NCP Brazil”, Brasilia, 28 January 2013

As part of the effort to promoting the Guidelines, the NCPs in Brazil, Norway and the UK worked together to organise the ‘International Workshop on the Guidelines for Responsible Business Conduct: building multilateral co-operation with the NCP Brazil’. Broadly, the discussions aimed at both increasing the understanding of the participants about the Guidelines and the work of the NCPs, and offering an opportunity for sharing international experiences resulting from the adoption of the Guidelines.

The workshop also intended to make participants aware of the CSR practices of the Brazilian business community, highlighting the specific characteristics that must be taken into account in the implementation of the Guidelines. In this sense, the NCP Brazil recognised the need for extensive work in increasing awareness about the Guidelines principles over several business sectors, some of which are largely unacquainted with them.

In this context, the seminar had the ambition to develop a long-term and productive co-operative network between the NCP Brazil and the different areas of CSR in the country. Ideally, such co-operation would become a channel for multilateral communication, involving different levels of the Brazilian government, civil society, academia and private sector. Bringing together representatives of all these sectors – who may act as multipliers in their environment – is of great value to the dissemination and implementation of the Guidelines.

- In September 2012, several NCPs participated in a 3-day workshop on mediation organised by the Austrian NCP, in Salzburg (see Box 1.7).
- Switzerland’s NCP closely co-operated with other NCPs on different specific instances and the proactive agenda, namely Canada and Finland’s NCP. The Switzerland’s NCP also maintained co-operation and regular exchange with the German-speaking NCPs (Austria and Germany). Along with Netherlands’ NCP, Switzerland’s NCP was invited by Austria’s NCP to describe its structure and to share its experience in handling specific instances.
- On 4 October 2012, the Directorate-General for Trade of the European Commission and the Delegation of the European Union in Chile organised a workshop where 90 representatives from European and Latin American governments, civil society, EU institutions and the OECD discussed the role of CSR in trade and investment relations between Europe and Latin America. The workshop, which is one of several meetings and conferences organised in preparation for the EU-Latin America Summit in Santiago in

Box 1.7. Workshop for National Contact Points
“Mediation and informal problem solving”, Salzburg,
23-25 September 2012

The 2011 Update of the Guidelines has significantly reinforced the problem solving function exercised by NCPs and raised additional demands on the NCPs’ capacity to provide mediation as well as other informal problem solving services.

The first workshop on mediation and informal problem solving for NCPs was held in Salzburg and 23 to 25 September 2012. The event, co-hosted by the Austrian Federal Ministry of Economy, Family and Youth and the OECD, was moderated by Professor Larry Susskind of the MIT Harvard Public Disputes Program and Mil Niepold, senior mediator at the CBI. The project was assisted by Mr. Frans Evers, Chairman of the Dutch National Contact Point and was attended by 16 NCPs, from Chile, Israel, Italy, Canada, Columbia, Morocco, Mexico, Netherlands, Norway, United Kingdom, United States, Sweden, Slovenia, Czech Republic, Switzerland and Austria.

Among others, the workshop focused on issues related to transparency and confidentiality (including terms of reference relating to the mediation process); on costs and selection procedures to appoint an external mediator; on balancing differences between civil society and enterprises expectations; and on strategies for implementing NCP findings and decisions;

Participants benefited not only from expertise on problem solving instruments but in particular from sharing their experiences related to specific instances as well as exchanging ideas on improving the implementation of the Guidelines.*

* In light of the request by several NCPs to strengthen their mediation skills in case hiring an external mediator proves to be impossible, the planning of a second Workshop, involving stakeholders as well as Guidelines-experienced mediators, has already started.

January 2013, addressed multiple aspects of CSR and focused in particular on the role of the Guidelines.

Investment promotion, export credit and investment guarantee agencies

As shown in Annex 1.A4, adhering governments have continued to explore ways of ensuring that their support for the Guidelines finds appropriate expression in credit and investment promotion or guarantee programmes.

Paragraph 37 of the commentary to the updated Guidelines provides that “Statements and reports on the results of the proceedings made publicly available by the NCPs could be relevant to the administration of government programmes and policies. In order to foster policy coherence, NCPs are encouraged to inform these government agencies of their statements and reports when they are known, by the NCP to be relevant to a specific agency's policies and programmes. ...”.

On 28 June 2012, the OECD adopted the Revised OECD Recommendation on Common Approaches for Officially Supported Export Credits and Environmental and Social Due Diligence (the “Common Approaches”) one year after the 2011 Update of the Guidelines. The revised Common Approaches “provide that members should promote awareness of the OECD Guidelines for Multinational Enterprises among appropriate parties involved in applications for officially supported export credits as a tool for responsible business conduct in a global context” [Paragraph 4 (iii)]. Furthermore, when undertaking an environmental and social review of projects, members “should, where appropriate, consider any statements or reports made publicly available by their National Contact Points (NCPs) at the conclusion of a specific instance procedure under the OECD Guidelines for Multinational Enterprises” [Paragraph 15, second bullet].

At European level, as part of the negotiations of EU Free Trade Agreements, the Commission pursues the inclusion of references to internationally recognised CSR guidelines and principles, which include the Guidelines.

In addition to the information in Annex 1.A4, this year's NCP reports include the following information on national government export credit programs:

- Canada's NCP Chair and the Committee routinely liaise with Export Development Canada, the export credit agency of Canada, regarding policies and other matters with respect to RBC. Canada's Trade Commissioner Service, along with its broader network of embassies, high commissions and other offices, both domestic and international, provide support and services to Canadian companies' international business operations. These activities include training, outreach, and response to stakeholders' queries regarding the Guidelines, and the NCP's role in encouraging their promotion and effective implementation.
- In its white paper on CSR in a global economy, the Norwegian Government stated that it will “work to increase knowledge and guidance about the Guidelines, among other things through the NCP and relevant public instruments”. In this respect, the Norway's NCP maintains close contact with the Norwegian Guarantee Institute for Export Credits (GIEK). For example, the NCP has considered standards and practices that are used by GIEK when conducting environmental and human rights due diligence in the projects it supports.

- United States' NCP has collaborated with the US Export-Import Bank on providing information on the Guidelines to applicants for the Bank's financing programs in support of US business activities abroad, and will continue this process.

Specific instances: Concluded and new

More NCPs developed procedures to handle specific instances

The majority of the NCPs have now aligned their procedures for the handling specific instances to the 2011 Procedural Guidance on the Guidelines. Brazil, Denmark, Mexico, Morocco and Portugal have developed or revised their procedures over the past year. Brazil, Chile and Morocco have published online, in their national languages, their respective procedures.

Overview of specific instances in the reporting period

Forty specific instances were concluded in this reporting period: 20 that were pending as of June 2012 (10 after initial assessment and 10 after "assistance to parties") and 20 that were received during the reporting period (see below). Overall, 26 statements were made publicly available.⁹

Of the 36 new specific instances that were submitted to NCPs:

- 11 are under "initial assessment";
- 5 are in the "assistance to parties" phase;
- 20 have been concluded (18 after the initial assessment phase, 2 after "assistance to parties").

Between June 2012 and June 2013, some NCPs saw an important increase in the number of specific instances as compared to the 2011-12 implementation period:

- Denmark had 4 specific instances in 2012-13, 0 in 2011-12;
- Germany had 5 specific instances in 2012-13, 1 in 2011-12;
- Mexico had 3 specific instances in 2012-13, 0 in 2011-12;
- Sweden had 3 specific instances in 2012-13, 0 in 2011-12;
- Spain had 2 specific instances¹⁰ in 2012-13, 0 in 2011-12.

In addition, the Dutch NCP has offered its assistance in advance of receiving a formal request (referred as "pre-mediation"). The Dutch NCP reports having received several of such requests, one of which was made by a group of stakeholders on the matter of labelling of place of origin on products. The first dialogue between the parties involved in this request was conducted by the Dutch NCP in September 2012 to the satisfaction of all parties concerned.

Outcomes of concluded specific instances

The 40 specific instances concluded during the last implementation period mainly concerned the mining and quarrying, manufacturing and financial sectors, with issues predominately relating to human rights, labour and environment. Eight specific instances also involved stakeholder engagements issues.

Half of the concluded specific instances concerned non-adhering countries: Benin, Cambodia, Cameroon, Democratic Republic of Congo, Dominican Republic, India, Indonesia, Laos, Mozambique, Niger, Paraguay, Russia, South Africa, United Arab Emirates, Uzbekistan and Zambia.

The reasons most frequently invoked by NCPs to conclude a specific instance after the initial assessment were:

- The specific instance is not material or/and substantiated.
- The NCP is not able to find a breach of the Guidelines based on the information provided.
- One party is not interested in mediation. In some cases, it is the complainants that were not interested in mediation, which could mean that the specific instance process was not well-understood by those complainants.
- Parallel proceedings or other processes such as consultation process are taking place on the same issues.

In 30% of the specific instances, NCPs provided assistance to parties in the form of a dialogue or mediation. In three of those cases, the parties reached an agreement (2) or agreed on a timetable for negotiations (1).

In five specific instances, the parties reached an agreement (4) or agreed to restart negotiations (1) through parallel proceedings or other processes.

When NCPs provided assistance to parties, the reasons most frequently invoked for not having a successful outcome to mediation/dialogue were:

- The parties could not agree on how to resolve the issues.
- The parties reached an agreement through parallel proceedings or other processes.
- One party requested that parallel legal proceedings be withdrawn as a condition to participate in mediation.

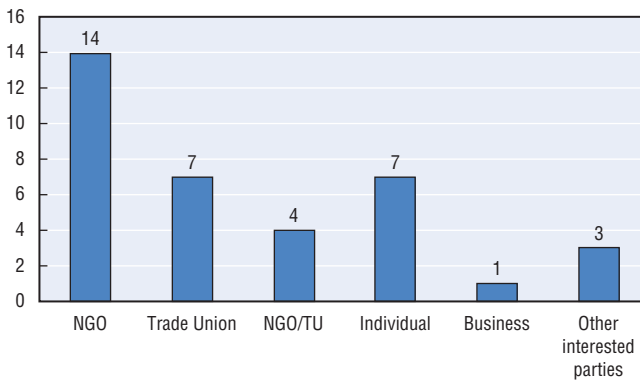

Regardless of the outcome of the specific instance, many NCPs made recommendations based on the Guidelines regarding inter alia disclosure and transparency, stakeholder engagement, due diligence in the supply chain, human rights and environmental issues.

New specific instances

Sources

Regarding the source of the request to consider an alleged non-observance of the Guidelines, the majority of the 36 new specific instances originated from NGOs, followed by trade unions and individuals. Four specific instances were jointly raised by NGOs and trade unions. Other interested parties and business were also among sources with 3 and 1 requests respectively.

Host countries

Source: Author's calculations.

The reporting period witnessed a significant increase (over 20%) in the number of specific instances arising in non-adhering countries. Thirteen alleged non-observances of the Guidelines originated from adhering countries (Brazil, Colombia, Denmark, Egypt, Korea, Mexico, Netherlands, Norway, Sweden, Tunisia, Turkey) as compared to 19 in non-adhering countries (Bahrain, Bangladesh, Cambodia, El Salvador, India, Indonesia, Lao People's Democratic Republic, Nicaragua, Philippines, Russia, South Africa, Thailand and United Arab Emirates). Four specific instances related to both adhering and non-adhering countries. One specific instance concerned MNE operations in several countries, namely Colombia, Norway, Turkey, US, Guatemala, Hong Kong, Indonesia and Malawi. The other three specific instances concerned MNEs based in adhering countries for the alleged misconduct of their subsidiaries in Thailand (2 specific instances) and India (one specific instance).

Industry sectors

Twelve industry sectors were concerned by new specific instances raised in the 2012-13 period, with a strong concentration on the Financial and insurance, and Manufacturing sectors, followed by the Mining and quarrying, and Human health and social work activities sectors. There were two specific instances in the Electricity, gas, steam and air conditioning supply sector and two in the Construction and professional, scientific and technical activities sector.

This breakdown represents a noticeable change as compared to the industrial distribution of the last implementation period which showed a concentration on the Mining and quarrying sector, followed by Manufacturing and the Financial and insurance sectors.

Chapters of the Guidelines

Of the newly raised specific instances, the most frequently cited chapters were Human rights, General policies, Employment and industrial relations and Environment. The chapter on Human rights was cited in 22 of the 36 new specific instances, which is an important increase since the 2011-12 reporting period when this chapter was cited in eight of the 28 new specific instances.

Source: Author's calculations.

In all but one specific instance citing the Environment chapter, complainants also alleged the non-observance of the Human rights chapter. In most of the specific instances citing the Employment and industrial relations chapter, a breach of the Human rights chapter was also alleged.

Among the new specific instances as well as those concluded in the last implementation period, many complainants raised issues regarding stakeholder engagement, in particular with indigenous peoples. Many specific instances also raised issues and questions regarding due diligence in the financial sector and the responsibility of minority shareholders.

Co-operation among NCPs

Overall, 14 NCPs were involved in the handling of specific instances considered during the last implementation period. A number of NCPs also closely co-operated towards the resolution of the issues. In particular:

- France, Belgium and Luxembourg's NCPs collaborated in a specific instance that was handled by France's NCP. A final statement was issued in June 2013 as a result of this constructive co-operation. France's NCP was also consulted by its counterparts in Canada, Egypt, Morocco and the United Kingdom and the United States in the context of other specific instances.

- Norway's NCP actively co-operated with Sweden's NCP in the initial assessment phase of a specific instance regarding stakeholder engagement with Indigenous Peoples in Sweden. Norway's NCP also coordinated and exchanged information with Netherlands and Korea's NCPs on a case involving financial human rights due diligence. Morocco's NCP provided information to a specific instance handled by Norway's NCP.
- Netherlands' NCP assisted Luxembourg's NCP in dealing with a specific instance, and coordinated with the UK NCP in a specific instance. It also coordinated with Norway and Korea's NCPs, as well as with the Chair of the WPRBC and the Dutch embassy in Seoul, for a specific instance concerning a Korean company, and a Dutch and a Norwegian investment fund.
- In May 2012, Canada and Mexico's NCPs both received a request for review regarding the same specific instance in Mexico. The NCPs determined that Mexico's NCP was best placed to lead the review of the request. Canada's NCP assisted Mexico's NCP during its consideration of the case.
- Italy's NCP co-operated with the US NCP on the handling of a specific instance submitted to both NCPs

ANNEX 1.A1

Statement on the Rana Plaza tragedy

25 June 2013 – the National Contact Points are deeply saddened by the tragedy at Rana Plaza in Bangladesh. Our hearts go out to all of those affected. Like Secretary-General of the OECD Gurría has expressed: “This event is a dramatic wakeup call for the international textile industry, governments, and other stakeholders to address the risks before they result in tragedies such as this.”

The National Contact Points welcome robust and credible initiatives, such as the Accord on Fire and Building Safety in Bangladesh, which try to improve the situation on the ground. Abandoning production in Bangladesh could make the situation of the workers worse. The OECD Guidelines for Multinational Enterprises point out that in these circumstances, the responsible course is to work with stakeholders to guarantee the safety of workers, improve their working conditions and ensure respect for human rights.

The OECD Guidelines for Multinational Enterprises are a comprehensive set of recommendations on responsible business conduct that 45 OECD and non-OECD adhering governments expect enterprises to observe in their global operations. The OECD Guidelines for Multinational Enterprises ask enterprises to respect human and labour rights and be responsible for identifying and addressing risks of adverse impacts associated with their own activities or in their supply chains and other business relationships. The OECD Guidelines for Multinational Enterprises are supported by National Contact Points in each adhering country. Most of the enterprises sourcing textiles and garments from Bangladesh originate from adhering countries to the OECD Guidelines for Multinational Enterprises.

National Contact Points welcome that responsible business conduct in the textiles and garments supply chains will be addressed, as a matter of priority, in the high level discussions at the Global Forum on Responsible Business Conduct on 26-27 June 2013 and at the meeting of Working Party on Responsible Business Conduct on 28 June 2013.

The National Contact Points welcome the call to collective action by several Ministers and Secretary-General Gurría.

The National Contact Points will meet their responsibilities under the OECD Guidelines for Multinational Enterprises with respect to enterprises in the textiles and garments sector. Where appropriate, they will undertake stakeholder consultations at the national level and support and participate in work undertaken in the context of the multi-stakeholder Proactive Agenda by OECD. In coordination with other government agencies, they will, where appropriate, support implementation of robust and credible initiatives agreed to by stakeholders and enterprises, that are consistent with the OECD Guidelines for Multinationals Enterprises and the relevant ILO standards, such as the Accord on Fire and Building Safety.

The National Contact Points strongly encourage the Investment Committee and the Working Party on Responsible Business Conduct to work urgently with companies, trade unions and other relevant civil society groups to develop a collective response within the framework of its Pro Active Agenda. Particular attention should be given to the principles of adding value and avoiding duplication with other initiatives. NCP's encourage enterprises, trade unions, and other civil society groups to co-operate with the Working Party in this field.

A collective response could take the form of a joint effort by the OECD, that could include the ILO and the UN Working Group on Human Rights and Business/ UN OHCHR, to host a Forum for all interested stakeholders to inform one another of the specific initiatives in which they are involved regarding due diligence in the textile and garments sector in Bangladesh with the objective of fostering coordination and collaboration among all stakeholders in meeting their respective responsibilities. It could include sharing views on the relevance of their experiences in relation to Bangladesh to the textiles sector more broadly. It could also include consideration of strategies and practices for application of risk based due diligence in supply chains in the sector. The NCP's also note the importance of donor community involvement and the contribution it can make in assisting Bangladesh and other textile and garments producing countries in meeting their responsibilities with respect to these sectors.

As noted in the statement of the Secretary-General of OECD, the OECD Guidelines for Multinational Enterprises, using risk-based due diligence, multi-stakeholder engagement and targeted development assistance, have been instrumental in meeting challenges in other sectors such as trade in minerals and may be able to make an important contribution alongside initiatives already underway in the textiles industry.

OECD Watch submission – August 2013

OECD Watch is an international network of more than 80 CSOs from across the world promoting corporate accountability and responsibility. Members of OECD Watch share a common goal to improve corporate accountability mechanisms in order to achieve sustainable development and enhance the social and environmental performance of corporations worldwide.

This submission outlines the activities that OECD Watch has undertaken between June 2012 and June 2013 to raise awareness about and build capacity on the Guidelines among CSOs. These activities were undertaken with the aim of improving the implementation of Guidelines.

Supporting and maintaining information on specific instances filed by NGOs

The website and case database of Guidelines complaints filed by NGOs remains an important means of communication and outreach for OECD Watch. In 2012 the website has been maintained and information about the updated Guidelines has been included. OECD Watch has published Quarterly Case Updates in June 2012 and December 2012 that provide up-to-date information about the latest developments in specific instances filed by NGOs. These publications have been distributed to approximately 750 persons per publication. Additionally more than 1000 visitors have downloaded the Quarterly Case Updates from the OECD Watch website.

The OECD Watch Secretariat and OECD Watch members have supported and advised NGOs on using the Guidelines' specific instance mechanism and promoting best practices among NCPs. OECD Watch members were instrumental in addressing several cases concerning responsible business conduct through the specific instance process in the past year.

A detailed summary of the contents and developments of all NGO cases filed, closed, concluded or withdrawn between June 2012 and June 2013 can be found in the OECD Watch case database on the OECD Watch website (www.oecdwatch.org/cases). In addition to cases that have been filed with NCPs, OECD Watch and members have supported many more organisations by helping to examine the possibility of filing a specific instance.

Production of informational and promotional materials about the OECD Guidelines

In June 2012 OECD Watch published a brochure introducing the content of the Guidelines and the associated specific instance mechanism. This brochure is primarily meant for CSOs, workers, communities and individuals affected by irresponsible business conduct. It briefly explains what the OECD Guidelines are, to which situations they apply and how these groups can use the OECD Guidelines to hold corporations to account for their actions. OECD Watch has engaged with NCPs and embassies to widely disseminate this publication. The brochure is available in English, French, Spanish and Korean. http://oecdwatch.org/publications-en/Publication_3816.

In June 2013 OECD Watch launched its new guide "Calling for Corporate Accountability: A Guide to the 2011 OECD Guidelines for Multinational Enterprises". This practical guide is designed to help individuals, communities, NGOs and trade unions that have been negatively affected by corporate behaviour to address the alleged misconduct through filing a Guidelines complaint. The guide provides an elaboration on the content of the Guidelines and the associated specific instance mechanism, as well as detailed guidance how this mechanism can be used to address responsible business conduct. The guide is available in English, French and Spanish.

Additionally, over the past year, OECD Watch member Accountability Counsel prepared several adapted versions of its Accountability Resource Guide, which includes a section on the use of the OECD Guidelines and NCPs. The adapted were tailored to the specific needs of various CSOs and communities.

ANNEX 1.A5

Summaries of specific instances concluded between June 2012-June 2013

The following summaries of specific instances concluded between June 2012-June 2013 are based on the public statements and information provided by NCPs.*

Australia

Statement by the Australian NCP regarding an Australian Multinational Mining Company

On 1 February 2013, the Australian NCP received a request to consider a specific instance complaint by a representative of a community organisation from the Eastern Cape region of South Africa (the complainant), alleging that an Australian mining company had breached the general policies, disclosure, human rights, employment and industrial relations, environment and combating bribery, bribe solicitation and extortion provisions of the Guidelines.

In undertaking the initial assessment, the NCP considered the information provided by the complainant and the company involved. The NCP also exchanged emails and discussed the matter by telephone with both parties.

After these deliberations, a statement was released 8 March 2013. The Australian NCP decided that at this time, it was not able to accept the matter as a specific instance complaint for the following reasons: 1) the complainant clearly stated that the local community is not interested in mediation, 2) the NCP was not able to verify the assertions made by the complainants based on the information provided, and 3) the application for mineral exploration rights is currently being considered by the relevant local authorities, and the local community is able to participate in the associated consultation process.

Belgium

Final statement by Belgium's NCP regarding a specific instance from various NGOs against Compagnie Minière du Sud Katanga and Entreprise Générale Malta Forrest operating in the Democratic Republic of Congo (DRC)

On 2 April 2012, the Belgian NCP received a request for review from the NGOs the International Federation for Human Rights (FIDH), the Action contre l'Impunité pour les Droits de l'Homme (ACIDH) and Rights and Accountability in Development (RAID) alleging that Compagnie Minière du Sud Katanga or Entreprise Générale Malta Forrest, subsidiary companies of the Forrest Group, had breached the general policies and human rights provisions of the Guidelines in the Democratic Republic of Congo. It was alleged that the mining operations at Luiswishi mine were responsible for the destruction of property in the villages of Kawama and Lukuni-gare which occurred when the police organised an operation to halt clandestine artisanal mining activities.

The NCP met three times with the parties. In its final statement released on 12 February 2013 concluding the specific instance, the NCP noted that all governmental efforts to remedy the situation and reimburse the loss of property had remained without result. The NCP had obtained agreement from the Rachel Forrest Foundation, Forrest Group's humanitarian association, to repair a well, the school and the pharmacy. However this offer was rejected by the inhabitants of the villages as inadequate.

In concluding the specific instance, the NCP called on the Forrest Group to realise the social measures proposed for the benefit of the local population.

On 19 April 2007, the Brazilian NCP received a request for review by the National Confederation of Financial Sector Workers (CONTRAF) and Unified Workers' Central (CUT) alleging that ABN AMRO in Brazil had breached the employment and industrial relations provisions of the Guidelines by refusing to negotiate with the labour unions.

On 14 September 2012, the NCP decided to conclude this specific instance procedure based on a request made on 22 August 2012 by the Bankers Trade Union of Sao Paulo, Osasco and Region. According to the trade union, the legal person “ABN AMRO” was extinguished on 1 November 2011 due to its incorporation by Banco Santander, which means that the claim can no longer be maintained.

Statement by the Brazilian NCP on a specific instance raised by the Unified Workers’ Central against C&A Modas Ltda. in Brazil

On 6 March 2007, the Brazilian NCP received a request for review by the trade union Unified Workers’ Central (CUT) alleging that C&A Modas Ltd in Brazil had breached the employment and industrial relations provisions of the Guidelines by refusing to negotiate with the trade union.

On 7 March 2007, the Brazilian NCP received a request for review by National Confederation of Financial Sector Workers (CONTRAF) and Unified Workers’ Central (CUT) alleging that Unibanco in Paraguay had breached the employment and industrial relations provisions of the Guidelines by dismissing a labour union representative without cause.

On 22 August 2012, the Bankers Trade Union of Sao Paulo, Osasco and Region requested the closure of the specific instance, stating that the dispute has been resolved through direct negotiations between the parties. A final statement in English by the Brazilian NCP will be released soon.

Statement by the Brazilian NCP on a specific instance raised by Bankers Trade Union of Sao Paulo, Osasco and Region, Unified Workers’ Central, National Confederation of Financial Sector Workers and Bankers’ Federation of CUT Sao Paulo against Itaú Unibanco S.A. in Brazil

On 22 September 2009, the Brazilian NCP received a request for review by Bankers Trade Union of Sao Paulo, Osasco and Region, Unified Workers’ Central (CUT), National Confederation of Financial Sector Workers (CONTRAF) and Bankers’ Federation of CUT Sao Paulo (FETEC) alleging that Itaú Unibanco in Brazil had breached the employment and industrial relations provisions of the Guidelines by their improper interference in the trade unions’ activities during wage negotiations.

On 5 February 2013, a mediation meeting was held with the parties, in order to establish policies which aim to reduce turnover and reallocate workers that have been dismissed. In the absence of an agreement between the parties on any of the issues, the specific instance was closed. On 25 April 2013, the NCP published the final version of the Final Statement in Portuguese after it has been reviewed by the parties. A final statement in English by the Brazilian NCP will be released soon.

Canada

Conclusion by the Canadian NCP on the specific instance from Proyecto de Derechos Economicos Sociales y Culturales A.C. (ProDESC) et al. against Excellon Resources Inc. in Mexico (See entry by the Mexican NCP)

On 29 May 2012, Canada received the request for review of Excellon Resources Ltd's operations in Durango, Mexico. A request for review was submitted concurrently to Mexico's NCP. In consultation, the Mexican and Canadian NCPs determined that Mexico was best placed to lead the review of the request. This decision was conveyed to the parties on 28 June 2012. Canada assisted Mexico's NCP as requested throughout their initial assessment. The Mexican NCP shared a copy of its findings with Canada's NCP on 5 December 2012.

Denmark

Statement by the Danish NCP regarding a specific instance from an individual against a medical practitioner

On 24 December 2012, a Danish person submitted a specific instance to the Danish NCP concerning a medical practitioner. The complaint did not include information on what the alleged infringement was or how the complaint related to an area covered by the Guidelines and it was not possible to have this clarified by the complainant. The case was concluded after the initial assessment.

Statement by the Danish NCP regarding a specific instance from an individual against a law firm

On 8 March 2013, a Danish person submitted a specific instance to the Danish NCP concerning a law firm, who he found liable in a dispute regarding enforcement proceedings and claim for damages. The complainant alleged a breach of the consumer interests provisions of the Guidelines. The case was rejected after the initial assessment as the case was found to be outside the scope of the Guidelines.

Statement by the Danish NCP regarding an individual complaining about being removed from a housing corporation's waiting list

On 8 March 2013, an individual submitted a specific instance to the Danish NCP about being removed from a housing corporation's waiting list, alleging a breach of the human rights provision of the Guidelines. After the NCP had been in contact with the complainant, it was evident that the complainant wanted the NCP to find a new apartment for her, and that the complainant was not interested in filing a complaint. The case was rejected after the initial assessment.

Statement by the Danish NCP regarding a specific instance from a self-employed individual against an NGO for submitting false information about the complainant on the NGO's website

On 1 April 2013, a self-employed individual submitted a specific instance to the Danish NCP about an NGO's behaviour, which the complainant found was defamatory to his person. The complainant alleged a breach of the human rights provisions of the Guidelines. The NCP found that on the basis of the available information, the statement was not of such a nature that there had been a violation of the Guidelines. The case was rejected after the initial assessment.

Finland

Statement by the Finnish NCP on a specific instance raised by 15 NGOs regarding the actions of Pöyry Oyj in Laos

On 11 June 2012, 15 NGOs submitted a specific instance to the Finnish NCP on the actions of the Finnish consultants Pöyry Oyj, and its Swiss auxiliary Pöyry Energy AG, with regard to the Xayaburi Dam in Laos. The complainants cited the non-observance of the general policies, disclosure, human rights and environment provisions of the Guidelines. More specifically, they alleged that Pöyry Oyj should have paid more attention to the negative effects of the Dam project when studying its environmental and human rights impacts.

The NCP found that even though the company should have addressed the ambiguities related to environmental issues and human rights more clearly in its report to the government of Laos, it did not violate the Guidelines. Pöyry operated within the confines of a limited assignment, which for example limited its possibilities of hearing stakeholders. However, the NCP recommends that in the future, companies should assess the risks of similar major projects more carefully and act more transparently.

France

Report by the French NCP on a specific instance raised by French, Cameroonian and German NGOs and associations regarding the SOCAPALM'S activities in Cameroon

On 3 December 2010, the Centre pour le Développement – Cameroun, Fondation Camerounaise d'Actions Rationalisées et Formation sur l'Environnement, SHERPA (France) and NGO MISEREOR (Germany) (“complainants”) submitted a request for review to the French, Belgian and Luxembourg NCPs, in relation to the SOCAPALM'S activities in Cameroon. The complaint refers to four companies, which the complainants alleged have business relationships with SOCAPALM: BOLLORE SA (France), Financière du Champ de Mars (Belgium), SOCFINAL, now SOCFIN, (Luxembourg) et INTERCULTURES, now SOCFINAF SA (Luxembourg). The NCPs agreed that France would take the lead regarding this specific instance since Bollore is headquartered in France and the nature of the other companies is essentially financial.

The complainants cited the non-observance of the general policies, disclosure, employment and industrial relations and environment provisions of the 2000 Guidelines. The complaints alleged that the four companies are SOCAPALM's business partners, meaning it should have use its leverage regarding adverse impacts. Bollore stated that it is a minority shareholder in SOCAPALM.

The French NCP found that SOCAPALM breached the general policies, employment and industrial relations and environment provisions of the Guidelines. The NCP also found that Bollore breached the general policies provisions by not using its leverage with its business partners. Bollore refused for a long time to engage in a dialogue with the other parties because of parallel legal proceedings and the French NCP welcomed Bollore's decision to accept mediation. The parties agreed to work together in order to develop an action plan that will be implemented by SOCAPALM. The agreement should be finalised by the end of August 2013 and will cover the following issues: communication with local communities, environment, access to public services, local development, situation of workers and subcontractors, transparency and compensation for local residents regarding land issues. The parties decided that the action plan would be monitored by an independent third-party committee. The report was released on 3 June 2013 and the French NCP intends to follow-up on its recommendations before the end of 2013.

Conclusion by the French NCP on a specific instance raised by the International Union of Food, Agricultural, Hotel, Restaurant, Catering, Tobacco and Allied Workers' Associations (IUF) against the Accor Group with regard to its activities in Canada and Benin

On 8 November 2010, the IUF submitted a specific instance to the French NCP with regard to the Accor Group's activities in Canada and Benin. The complainant alleged the non-observance of the employment and industrial relations provision of the 2000 Guidelines version (Chapter 4), stating that the Accor Group denied the right of workers it employed in three hotels in Canada and one in Benin to establish or join trade unions.

The Canadian and French NCPs agreed that the French NCP will take the lead since the company is headquartered in France. The final statement was released 11 December 2012.

To address the situation in Canada, the French NCP consulted with the parties despite the strong tension between them. However, this dynamic led to the failure to engage in a constructive dialogue on the issue of union representation. The French NCP also highlighted a decision from the Ontario Labour Relations Board which found various labour law violations by the Accor Group. After consideration of the specific circumstances and consultation with the parties, the NCP found that the Accor Group in Canada ignored the rights of workers to be represented by unions, which is in direct conflict with the Guidelines. The French NCP urged the parties to engage in a constructive dialogue in order to resolve the issue.

To address the issues in Benin, the French NCP convened a dialogue with the parties which led to a proposed timetable for negotiations by the Accor Group in order to reach a settlement agreement. The NCP was pleased that the company acknowledged the need to set up a health committee and by its efforts to revive the social dialogue. Nonetheless, the French NCP concluded that the Accor Group did not comply with employment and industrial relations provisions of the Guidelines regarding employment and industrial relations.

Final statement from the French NCP regarding a specific instance raised by SHERPA and the European Centre for Constitutional and Human Rights against DEVCOT in respect of child labour in Uzbekistan

On 22 October 2010, SHERPA (France) and the European Centre for Constitutional and Human Rights (ECCHR, Germany) submitted a specific instance to the French NCP against Devcot for buying cotton that was allegedly produced through the systematic use of child labour in Uzbekistan. The alleged non-observance of the Guidelines by Devcot relates to the provisions on sustainable development and human rights (Chapters 2 and 4 of the 2000 Guidelines version). Similar complaints were made against other cotton merchants from Germany, Switzerland and the United Kingdom.

The French NCP provided its good offices through a long dialogue with the parties. The NCP held that the trade in goods produced from forced child labour constitutes a violation of the Guidelines, but acknowledged that Devcot has not purchased any Uzbek cotton in the last few years and does not intend to trade in Uzbekistan until child labour has ended.

In the final statement issued in September 2012, the NCP reminded Devcot of the importance of the Guidelines, and in particular the responsibilities within the cotton trade supply chain. The NCP also invited Devcot to carry out due diligence and implement the Guidelines recommendations vis-à-vis its business partners.

Final statement from the French NCP regarding a specific instance raised by multiple trade unions against Molex Automotive SARL

The French NCP received a specific instance on 28 February 2011 against Molex Automotive SARL, a French manufacturer of electronic components for various industries. The complainants, four different trade unions, alleged the non-observance of the employment and industrial relations provisions of the 2000 Guidelines version (Chapter 4), stating that Molex failed to inform and consult with employee representatives prior to the closure of its Villemur-sur-Tarn site.

The French NCP could not contact or meet with the company as it was undergoing judicial liquidation. Nevertheless, in the final statement released 20 September 2012, the NCP concluded that Molex has not fulfilled the information and co-operation obligation under the Guidelines for the following reasons: 1) the decision to close the site was already taken when the process of information and consultation was initiated; 2) the information provided could not lead to an appropriate job protection plan; and 3) the company did not co-operate to mitigate the negative impacts of the closure.

Final statement from the French NCP regarding a specific instance raised by Confédération Générale du Travail regarding Sodexo operations in the United States, Colombia, Morocco and Dominican Republic

On 4 August 2010, the Confédération Générale du Travail (CGT) submitted a specific instance to the French NCP regarding Sodexo operations in the United States and Colombia. On July 2011, the complaint was extended to operations in Morocco and Dominican Republic. The complainant alleged the non-observance of the employment and industrial relations provision of the Guidelines (Chapter 5) regarding freedom of association.

Subsequently, discussions were held with all parties. An agreement was reached between the US Service Employees International Union and the subsidiary of Sodexo Group in the United States which promotes and confirms free and informed choice in union matters. The NCP welcomed the conclusion of this agreement, which resolved the specific instance submitted. The final statement was released 20 September 2012.

Conclusion from the French NCP on a specific instance from UITA regarding société Roquette America operations in the United States (see entry by the US NCP)

The specific instance related to the disclosure Chapter of the Guidelines. It was decided that the US NCP would take the lead in this case, but the French NCP collaborated. An agreement was concluded in the United States.

Germany

Initial assessment and conclusion by the German NCP concerning an Indonesian citizen complaint against a German multinational enterprise

On 17 September 2012, an Indonesian citizen submitted a specific instance to the German NCP accusing a German multinational enterprise of operating in noncompliance with the human rights and employments and industrial relations provisions of the Guidelines. Until 2008, the claimant was working for a subsidiary of the German enterprise in Indonesia. Due to an internal reorganisation, the company where the claimant was employed was closed and subsequently, the company offered him employment in a new established subsidiary in Indonesia. As a result of these circumstances, the company wanted the claimant to sign a settlement agreement as well as a new employment agreement. However, in his complaint submitted to the German NCP, the claimant stated that specific clauses of these agreements violated the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, the ILO – Discrimination (Employment and Occupation) Convention, 1958 (No. 111), the Constitution of Indonesia and Indonesian labour law.

After comprehensively evaluating the complaint with several Federal Ministries, the NCP declared the complaint inadmissible to the mediation process on 7 December 2012. The NCP was of the opinion that the issues raised by the claimant did not merit further examination. Neither the settlement agreement nor the new employment agreement violated human rights or rules of non-discrimination. In addition, the NCP found no indication of a violation of chapter 5 (employment and industrial relations) of the Guidelines.

Italy

Final statement by the Italian NCP on a specific instance submitted by FIOM-CGIL against Eaton s.r.l.

On 24 February 2011, the Italian NCP received a specific instance by FIOM-CGIL, a trade union, against EATON s.r.l. for closing down the plant of Massa (town of Tuscany) and starting the lay-off procedure regarding 345 workers, allegedly in violation of the employment and industrial relations provisions of the Guidelines.

By virtue of an agreement reached by the parties in the course of court parallel proceedings, the complainant waived the specific instance. The NCP continued nevertheless to offer its good offices since some issues still remained between the parties

The Italian NCP issued its final statement on 14 March 2013, recommending that the parties work together in good faith in order to find the best solution in this complex case which affects many workers and the economy of an entire region. The NCP further recommended that Eaton s.r.l. involves workers in the future when a major organisational change is under consideration.

Japan – US

Follow-up by the Japanese NCP on a specific instance relating to mining exploration activities in Alaska

On 9 May 2011, the US and Japanese NCPs received a request for review from an NGO regarding mining exploration activities in the United States. The NCPs evaluated the specific instance filing and determined the Guidelines did not pertain because the US firm was a solely domestic enterprise and the nature of the business relationship between the Japanese and US firms did not meet the conditions for application of the Guidelines. The specific instance was submitted at a time when the US NCP's procedures called for final statements to be released only to the interested parties.

Korea

Initial assessment and conclusion by the Korean NCP on a specific instance raised by multiple NGOs with respect to the activities of Posco India in India

On 10 October 2012, Lok Shakti Abhiyan (India), Korean Trans National Corporation Watch (Korea), Fair Green Global Alliance (Netherlands and ForUM (Norway) filed a specific instance to the Korean NCP regarding the activities of Posco India in India, alleging that the general policies, human rights and environment provisions of the Guidelines were breached. More specifically, the complainants alleged that Posco India did not undertake sufficient measures to protect the human rights of the residents affected by the steel mills project from violence perpetrated by the Indian authority, did not carry out human rights and environmental due diligence and did not take into account the voices of stakeholders in relation with the significant impacts of the project.

The Korean NCP concluded that the specific instance did not merit further consideration. The NCP considered the complaint to be related to the administrative activities of the provincial government of India rather than the business activities of Posco India. Therefore, the Indian Court, and not the NCP, is responsible for determining the legality and legitimacy of such activities.

Statement by the Korean NCP on a specific instance regarding fine chemicals in Korea

On 16 August 2012, Hwan-sup Shin, the head of the Korean Chemical and Textile Workers' Union (KCTWU) under the Korean Confederation of Trade Unions (KCTU), and Hyun-chul Park, the head of the Adeka Korea Chapter of the KCTWU, filed a complaint to the Korean NCP against Adeka Korea, alleging a breach of the human rights and employment and industrial relations provisions of the Guidelines.

Since collective bargaining and legal proceedings were under way at the time the specific instance was submitted, the Korean NCP found its intervention would be confusing and not help to resolve the case. The NCP therefore decided to conclude the specific instance.

Mexico

Initial assessment and conclusion by the Mexican NCP on a specific instance against a mining company operating in Mexico (see entry by the Canadian NCP)

On 29 May 2012, an NGO wrote to the Mexican NCP on behalf of various trade unions, a common land owner unit ("Ejido") and other interested parties raising a number of concerns with respect to the operations of a mining company in Mexico. The Canadian NCP received the same specific instance on 28 May 2012 and both NCPs agreed that the Mexican NCP will take the lead.

The complainants alleged that the disclosure, human rights, employment and industrial relations and environment provisions of the Guidelines were breached. More specifically, they alleged the following: 1) breach of a lease contract, 2) lack of disclosure of relevant information to shareholders, 3) human rights violations and anti-union practices, and 4) water and environmental pollution.

In undertaking its initial assessment, the Mexican NCP consulted with relevant authorities regarding the issues at stake and held meetings with the relevant parties to the case. The NCP decided not to offer its good offices, referring to the following: 1) various legal procedures were taking place, which was highly relevant for the development and eventual outcome of the dispute, 2) the issues brought before the NCP were in general material but insufficiently substantiated, 3) the mining company firmly rejected any possible mediation process, 4) due to their nature, most conflicts could not be resolved through mediation, but had to find a solution through the action of competent authorities, and 5) parallel negotiation efforts at high political levels were taking place, and the participation of the NCP was not deemed as feasible nor meaningful.

Statement by the Mexican NCP on a specific instance raised by a labour union against a metallurgist company operating in Mexico

On 17 October 2012, the Mexican and Finnish NCPs received a request for review by a trade union alleging that a metallurgist company operating in Mexico had breached the employment and industrial relations provisions of the Guidelines due to allegations of favouritism over a trade union controlled by the company. The complainant also alleged that workers were illegally fired. The request was submitted to both Finish and Mexican NCPs. According to the OECD Procedural Guidance, the parties decided that the Mexican NCP would take the lead in this case.

After meetings were held with the parties and consultations were conducted with relevant authorities, the Mexican NCP decided not to offer its good offices, referring to the following reasons: 1) Various legal procedures were taking place, which were highly relevant for the development and eventual outcome of the dispute; 2) the issues brought before the NCP were in general material but insufficiently substantiated; and 3) the issues could not be resolved through mediation but had to find a solution through the decision of the competent labour authorities. The final statement was released on 17 May 2013.

Netherlands

Initial assessment and conclusion by the Dutch NCP regarding a specific instance submitted by Stroitel/Sakhalin Environmental Watch against Royal Dutch Shell

On 31 July 2012, the Non-Commercial Gardening Association “Stroitel” and the Non-Governmental Organisation “Sakhalin Environment Watch” (SEW) submitted a specific instance to the UK and Dutch NCPs regarding the involvement of Netherlands-based Royal Dutch Shell (Shell) and a number of

UK-based financial institutions in the Sakhalin II Project (Russia). The UK and Dutch NCPs agreed to treat the complaints against each company separately.

The complainants cited the non-observance of the concept and principles, general policies, human rights and environment provisions of the 2011 updated Guidelines. More specifically, the complainants alleged that the enterprise operations threatened individuals' health, livelihood and cultural heritage, as well as led to the displacement of datcha community members without resettlement measures or just compensation.

Even though the complaint referred to events that took place from 2001 to 2012, the Dutch NCP assessed the case according to the 2011 updated Guidelines in order to consider whether a mediation-type process could further the implementation of the Guidelines. In its initial assessment released on 20 March 2013, the Dutch NCP concluded that this specific instance does not merit further examination since the issues raised are neither material nor substantiated.

Statement by the Dutch NCP regarding a specific instance against Shell

The notification contains an alleged breach of the human rights provisions of the Guidelines by Shell Plc. In their complaint received by the Dutch NCP on 27 March 2013, the notifying parties submit that Shell published personal and business data related to the complainants without a permit, resulting in the termination of a contract between the complainants and a third party.

The Dutch NCP has not taken the notification into consideration since the alleged issues relate to the activities of Shell Plc. in the United States and the US NCP is the right entity. The US NCP is responsible for the initial assessment and any further possible procedures under the Guidelines. The US NCP already responded to the complainants.

Statement from the Dutch NCP regarding communications by Royal Dutch Shell on the cause of oil spills in the Niger Delta

The complaint against Royal Dutch Shell regarding oil spills in the Niger Delta was received by the Dutch NCP on 25 January 2011. The UK NCP was also notified and it was decided that the Dutch NCP will take the lead in this case, with support and assistance from the UK NCP if required. Friends of the Earth and Amnesty International alleged that Shell breached the disclosure, environment and consumer interests provisions of the Guidelines with respect to its communication on oil spills in the Niger Delta. According to the complainants, the company provided misleading information and omitted relevant facts about the causes of oil spills. They claimed that Shell based its communications on biased and unverified information, thus failing to provide reliable and relevant details to external stakeholders. In addition, incorrect and conflicting messages about the causes of oil spills further contributed to the low quality of non-financial information.

The process was conducted as a dialogue between the parties involved, and although helpful discussions took place during the meetings, parties have not reached an agreement. During those meetings, the issue of confidentially was discussed at length as Shell was asking a guarantee from the complainants that these cases would not be part of a campaign or appear in a public domain. Friends of the Earth and Amnesty International could not guarantee such thing since campaigning is at the heart of their actions. The NCP regrets that no solution for this dilemma could be found.

As a result, the specific instance is concluded. Nevertheless, the statement released in 21 March 2013 contains recommendations on due diligence in the supply chain and transparency, among other things.

Norway

Statement by the Norwegian NCP on a specific instance against the Norwegian Bank Investment Management (NBIM) of the Government Pension Fund Global regarding financial human rights due diligence

On 9 October 2012, the Norwegian, Dutch and Korean NCPs received a complaint from four non-governmental organisations (NGOs): Lok Shakti Abhiyan (India), KTNC Watch (South Korea), Fair Green and Global Alliance (Netherlands) and Forum for environment and development (Norway) (the “notifiers”) on 9 October 2012. The notification concerned alleged breaches of the Guidelines by South Korean Pohang Iron and Steel Enterprise (Posco) in its joint venture Posco India Private Limited. The notification was also directed at two of Posco’s investors; 1) the Dutch pension Fund ABP and its pension administrator APG; and 2) the Norwegian Bank Investment Management (NBIM) of the Government Pension Fund Global. In accordance with the OECD Guidelines’ Procedural Guidance, the Dutch, Norwegian and Korean NCPs agreed to coordinate, but also to handle the notification against the enterprise registered in their respective country.

The notifiers claimed that NBIM has failed to take the appropriate steps to prevent or mitigate negative human rights and environmental impacts in connection with its investment in Posco. They alleged that the general policies, disclosure and human rights provisions of the Guidelines were breached.

The Norwegian NCP issued its final statement on 27 May 2013. The NCP noted that it did not assess the claims or carried out any fact finding concerning Posco’s operations in India since it was not necessary in the assessment of NBIMs compliance with the Guidelines. The assessment by the Norwegian NCP was thus specifically limited to whether NBIM has acted in accordance with the Guidelines. As the complainants have raised issues with respect to the human rights Chapter of the Guidelines, the NCP examined two dimensions of the application of this Chapter to NBIM: 1) the extent to which NBIM has integrated the Guidelines provisions on human rights, including due diligence, into its policies and processes; and 2) the steps NBIM has taken or omitted in response to the allegations in this Specific instance, including issues related to Chapter III (Disclosure) of the Guidelines.

First of all, the Norwegian NCP did not share the view of NBIM that the Guidelines do not apply to the financial sector and minority shareholders. The Norwegian NCP consulted with the Dutch and UK NCPs and all three NCPs have come to the conclusion that the Guidelines apply to minority shareholders. The question is thus not whether the Guidelines apply to the financial sector and minority shareholding but how they apply.

The Norwegian NCP also concluded that NBIM violated the Guidelines by refusing to co-operate with the NCP and by not having any strategy on how to react if it becomes aware of human rights risks related to companies in which NBIM is investing, apart from child labour violations. NBIM rejected the Norwegian NCP offer of dialogue and refused to provide any information on whether they were engaging with Posco in any other forum. By refusing to co-operate with the NCP and to communicate its human rights due diligence strategy, especially regarding the current case, NBIM also breached Chapter III (Disclosure) of the Guidelines.

Spain

Specific instances regarding preferred stocks in Spain which involved financial institutions

From July to December 2012, the Spanish NCP received 16 requests for review regarding an alleged breach of the consumer interests provisions of the Guidelines. The specific instances alleged that multiple financial institutions did not provide all relevant information before the sale of complex financial products to their clients. The NCP closed all specific instances since the issues at stake were dealt with by national authorities.

Specific instance regarding preferred stocks in Spain which involved a multinational enterprise

In July 2012, the Spanish NCP received a request for review regarding an alleged breach of the consumer interests provisions of the Guidelines by a multinational enterprise. The specific instance refers to the sale of complex financial products and the possibility that all relevant information might not have been provided to the clients before the sale. The NCP closed the specific instance since the issues at stake were dealt with by national authorities.

Switzerland

Final statement by the Swiss NCP regarding taxation policy by Mopani Copper Mines Plc., Glencore International AG and First Quantum Minerals Ltd. in Zambia

On 12 April 2011, the Swiss and Canadian NCPs received a request to consider a specific instance regarding the possible violation of Chapter 2 (general policies) and Chapter 10 (taxation) of the Guidelines. The complaint, raised by a coalition of five NGOs (Declaration of Berne, SHERPA, MiningWatch Canada, L'Entraide missionnaire and The Centre for Trade Policy and Development CTPD), involves the Zambian extractive enterprise Mopani Copper Mines Plc. ("Mopani") and its majority owner, the Swiss enterprise Glencore International AG ("Glencore"), as well as a minority owner, the Canadian enterprise First Quantum Minerals Ltd. ("First Quantum"). Both NCPs agreed that the Swiss NCP will take the lead regarding this specific instance.

Based on a leaked draft report, the NGOs claimed that Mopani is utilizing various techniques to transfer taxable revenues out of Zambia in order to avoid paying taxes in the country. This draft report has not been endorsed by its authors Grant Thornton and Econ Pöyry and a final version of the report has not yet been published. Glencore submitted a written statement to the NCP dated 2 June 2011 denying the allegations and emphasizing that the draft report was a preliminary and incomplete version, which was unofficially circulated in Zambia. Some fundamental and factual errors were also identified in the report on which the allegations in the submission to the NCP are based. Glencore furthermore pointed to the fact that Mopani is audited every year by Deloitte, a major international audit firm.

Upon receiving the specific instance, the Swiss NCP separately invited representatives of both parties involved for informal, bilateral meetings. The NCP also created an ad-hoc group with other departments of the Swiss federal administration concerned by the specific instance. On 5 October 2011, the Swiss NCP concluded its confidential initial assessment and informed parties concerned that it found the issues being raised to be relevant and to merit further examination. The NCP then offered its good offices to facilitate a dialogue between both parties with the aim of reaching a mutually acceptable outcome.

A framework (Terms of Reference) for a dialogue on the issues raised was prepared by the NCPs, who also suggested contracting a professional external mediator to help facilitate this dialogue. The parties met on 11 July 2012 in the presence of the mediator and an NCP representative, and a mutual agreement was reached. Parties agreed to disclose the following points of their mutual agreement: 1) The parties reached a certain level of mutual understanding on the issues raised and clarification of issues raised; 2) The parties had a thorough exchange of information and open and very constructive discussions; 3) Both sides agreed to an exchange of information with the other parties, within the limits of applicable laws; 4) Both parties will explore ways how to engage in further dialogue; and 5) The parties discussed and agreed on certain further steps.

United Kingdom

Initial assessment and conclusion by the UK NCP on a specific instance from an individual in India against a UK company in respect of employment in the United Arab Emirates

On 1 February 2013, an individual wrote to the UK NCP raising concerns under the Guidelines relating to his employment in the United Arab Emirates' office of an insurance company headquartered in the United Kingdom. The complainant alleged that his treatment during his employment and on his redundancy was based on racial discrimination and breached his human rights. He referred to the human rights and employment and industrial relations provisions of the Guidelines.

The UK NCP concluded that while the complainant may reasonably have grievances about his treatment, the issues are not substantiated in respect of the company's responsibilities under the Guidelines.

Initial assessment and conclusion by the UK NCP regarding a specific instance from a civil society organisation against a UK Bank (C) with respect to a business relationship with a company in Russia

On 31 July 2012, a Russian civil society organisation wrote to the UK and the Dutch NCPs raising concerns related to the impacts on local property owners of an oil and gas production complex in Russia. The complaint named UK Bank C and two other UK banks, as well as a Netherlands based enterprise. The UK NCP and the Dutch NCP subsequently agreed to treat the complaints against each company separately.

The complainants alleged that these banks had business relationships with the Russian company operating the oil and gas complex (Company R), and that the banks had failed to comply with the responsibilities placed on them by the Guidelines to address impacts to which they were linked by a business relationship. The impacts resulted from actions of Company R that were allegedly inconsistent with many of the Guidelines standards, including responsibilities under Chapter II (general policies_ of the pre-2011 Guidelines and responsibilities under the updated 2011 Guidelines (concepts and principles, general policies, disclosure, human rights and environment). More specifically, the complainants alleged that UK Bank C has a business relationship with Company R as one of a group of financial enterprises providing a Project Finance Facility for the construction and commissioning of the production complex. In this context, the complainants said that UK Bank C made a corporate loan to Company R in 2008 and this loan had not yet matured.

From August to October 2012 and as requested by the UK NCP, the complainants clarified their complaint and UK Bank C responded. Each party was offered a meeting with the UK NCP but only UK Bank C took up the offer.

The UK NCP decided to conclude the initial assessment and to reject the complaint against UK Bank C because the issue is not substantiated in respect of UK Bank C's obligations under the Guidelines. The UK NCP applied the 2011 Guidelines as the complaint referred to events that took place between 2002 and 2012. As the complaint has not been substantiated, no offer of mediation has been made. The statement was released by the UK NCP on 10 January 2013.

Initial assessment and conclusion by the UK NCP regarding a specific instance from a civil society organisation against a UK Bank (B) with respect to a business relationship with a company in Russia

On 31 July 2012, Sakhalin Environment Watch wrote to the UK NCP, raising concerns related to the impacts on local property owners (the Stroitel Association) of an oil and gas production complex in Russia. The complaint named Royal Bank of Scotland (RBS) and two other UK banks, as well as a Netherlands-based enterprise. The UK NCP and the Dutch NCP subsequently agreed to treat the complaints against each company separately.

The complainants alleged that these banks had business relationships with the Russian company operating the oil and gas complex (Company R), and that the banks had failed to comply with the responsibilities placed on them by the Guidelines to address impacts to which they were linked by a business relationship. The impacts resulted from actions of Company R that were also allegedly inconsistent with many of the Guidelines standards. More specifically, the complainants alleged that RBS had a business relationship with Company R through RBS's acquisition in autumn 2007 of a Netherlands-based bank. In 2007, prior to being purchased by RBS, the Netherlands-based bank arranged loans that the complainants alleged allowed a Russian multinational to acquire a controlling interest in Company R. The complainants alleged that this gave RBS a financial interest in Company R and direct influence over it.

From August to October 2012 and as requested by the UK NCP, the complainants clarified their complaint and RBS responded. Each party was offered a meeting with the UK NCP but the complainants did not take up the offer. The UK NCP spoke to representatives of RBS on 2 October 2012.

The UK NCP decided to conclude the initial assessment and to reject the complaint against RBS because the link with the bank's responsibilities under the Guidelines was not substantiated. The UK NCP applied the 2011 Guidelines since the complaint referred to events taking place between 2002 and 2012, but noted that no evidence is offered to establish a business relationship between RBS and Company R from September 2011 that would trigger the enhanced requirements of the updated 2011 Guidelines. As the complaint has not been substantiated, no offer of mediation has been made. The statement was released by the UK NCP on 21 December 2012.

Initial assessment and conclusion by the UK NCP regarding a specific instance from a civil society organisation against a UK Bank (A) with respect to a business relationship with a company in Russia

On 31 July 2012, a Russian civil society organisation wrote to the UK and the Dutch NCPs raising concerns related to the impacts on local property owners of an oil and gas production complex in Russia. The complaint named UK Bank A and two other UK banks, as well as a Netherlands-based enterprise. The UK NCP and the Dutch NCP subsequently agreed to treat the complaints against each company separately.

The complainants alleged that these banks had business relationships with the Russian company operating the oil and gas complex (Company R), and that the banks had failed to comply with the responsibilities placed on them by the Guidelines to address impacts to which they were linked by a business relationship. The impacts resulted from actions of Company R that were allegedly inconsistent with many of the Guidelines standards. More specifically, the complainants alleged that UK Bank A had a business relationship with Company R through loans made in 2007 and 2010. The 2007 loan was made by UK Bank A and other lenders to Company R's controlling shareholder, and supported that company's acquisition of its controlling interest.

From August to November 2012 and as requested by the UK NCP, the complainants clarified their complaint and UK Bank A responded. UK Bank A pointed out that the report cited by the complainants as evidence of the loan was based on inaccurate information and this report was subsequently corrected. Each party was offered a meeting with the UK NCP but neither took up the offer.

The UK NCP decided to conclude the initial assessment and to reject the complaint against UK Bank A because the link with UK Bank A's activities was not substantiated. The UK NCP applied the 2011 Guidelines since the complaint referred to events that took place between 2002 and 2012. As the complaint has not been substantiated, no offer of mediation has been made. The statement was released by the UK NCP on 21 December 2012.

Initial assessment and conclusion from the UK NCP regarding a complaint from an individual in India against a UK registered company

On 16 January 2012, Ms. Z's advocate wrote to the UK NCP on behalf of his client stating that she had worked on several cruise ships owned by X plc between November 1999 to August 2008. During that time it is alleged that she contracted diabetes and other health related conditions as a result of negligent medical treatment by X plc. X plc disputes these allegations.

The specific complaint raised by Ms. Z relates to X plc's operations under Chapter II (general policies) paragraphs 2, 6 and 7 and Chapter IV (human rights) in particular paragraphs 1(d) and 4(a), of the 2000 version of the Guidelines.

After X plc responded on 21 February 2012 and Ms. Z's advocate provided additional comments on 28 February 2012, the UK NCP sent a draft initial assessment to both parties on 15 May 2012 asking for factual comments. Further comments and submission were later made by Ms. Z's advocate. After new evidence was provided by the complainant, the assessment was finalised in August 2012.

The UK NCP has decided to reject the complaint on the grounds that the allegations made in the complaint have not been supported by sufficient evidence and therefore have not been substantiated. The UK NCP also notes that complaint under the Guidelines is not the proper forum for a personal injury claim. However, had there been sufficient supporting evidence to deem the allegations material and substantiated, the UK NCP agreed that it could have tried to facilitate a mediated solution to the complaint. The statement was released by the UK NCP on 30 August 2012.

Review by the UK NCP Steering Board of the NCP's procedure in the Initial Assessment of a complaint from an individual in India against a UK registered company

On 2 September 2012, Ms Z's advocate has made an application to the Review Committee regarding procedural errors in the NCP's decision-making. The issue raised is whether the NCP in making the initial assessment should have considered the opinions of expert bodies not submitted by the complainant. The Review Committee does not consider the NCP bound to take account of information not submitted by a party and is furthermore of the opinion that the additional information not considered by the NCP would not have had any bearing on the decision made.

Final statement from the UK NCP regarding a complaint from Justiça Ambiental et al. against BHP Billiton PLC (on Mozal SARM) in Mozambique

The UK NCP received a request for review from Justiça Ambiental (JA), on behalf of a coalition of institutions, against BHP Billiton PLC alleging that Mozal SARM (Mozal), a joint venture operating an aluminium smelter near Maputo (Mozambique), breached the general policies, disclosure and environment provisions of the Guidelines. BHPB owns a 47.1% stake in the joint venture. The concerns raised by JA relate more specifically to the establishment and maintenance of an appropriate environmental system, disclosure of adequate and timely information, consultation with local communities and respect of human rights. JA filed similar complaints with the Australian NCP and both NCPs agreed that the UK NCP will take the lead in the complaint process under the Guidelines.

On 2 February 2011, the UK NCP finalised the Initial Assessment on the complaint from JA and decided to accept for further consideration the alleged breach by BHPB of various provisions of the 2000 version of the Guidelines. The alleged breach of Chapter II (5) (general policies) of the Guidelines was not accepted for further consideration.

Between 2 February and 28 November 2011, the UK NCP suspended the complaint process in order to take into account the parties' decision to undergo conciliation/mediation outside of the UK NCP's process. On 28 November 2011, and after taking into account that the parties had not reached an agreement, the UK NCP offered conciliation/mediation to the parties. BHPB accepted the offer but JA declined it. Therefore, on 16 December 2011, the UK NCP informed the parties that it would undertake an examination of JA's allegations and prepare a Final Statement.

The UK NCP examined the allegations contained in the complaint from Justiça Ambiental and concluded that BHP Billiton PLC did not breach the general policies, disclosure and environment provisions of the 2000 version of the Guidelines, in respect of Mozal SARM's operations in Mozambique. However, the UK NCP encouraged both BHP Billiton PLC and Mozal SARM to build upon their existing procedures for engagement with local communities and be forthcoming in disclosing to interested parties (particularly the affected communities and their representatives) information on projects that may have an impact on the environment and the health and safety of the communities. The statement was released by the UK NCP on 13 September 2012.

United States

Final statement by the US NCP on a specific instance raised by Community Legal Education Center of Cambodia (CLEC)/Earth Rights International (ERI) against American Refining Inc. (ASR) regarding human rights due diligence in supply chain relationship in Cambodia

On 13 October 2012, CLEC and ERI, a Cambodian and a US based NGOs, jointly filed a specific instance with the US NCP raising concerns over alleged human rights violations related to operations of the Koh Kong sugar plantation and refinery in Cambodia. More specifically, it was alleged that villagers were forcibly evicted with no public consultation, social or environmental impact assessment or settlement plan. The NGOs contended that American Sugar Refiners Inc. (ASR), by virtue of its supply chain relationship with the Koh Kong plantation, had an obligation to avoid contributing to conduct inconsistent with the Guidelines and had the opportunity and responsibility to use its leverage to mitigate such conduct by the operators of the plantation. The NGOs alleged that ASR's actions were inconsistent with the general policies and human rights provisions of the Guidelines.

CLEC and ERI stated that American Sugar Refiners Inc. (ASR), through UK-based T&L Sugars, Ltd. (T&L), purchased sugar produced at the Koh Kong plantation. The US NCP therefore informed the UK NCP of the specific instance and both NCPs agreed that the United States should take the lead because ASR and T&L shared a common U.S.-based corporate parent.

The US NCP found sufficient reasons to offer its good offices to facilitate a discussion between the two sides. All parties agreed to the NCP's proposal that the US FMCS lead any facilitated dialogue, including a pre-mediation consultation. However on March 2013, CLEC, on behalf of affected communities, filed a civil suit against T&L Sugars in the UK Commercial Court. ASR thus informed the NCP that it would not participate in the mediated dialogue unless CLEC withdrew its UK civil suit.

The US NCP closed the specific instance on 4 June 2013 when it became clear the parties could not reach an agreement to proceed, even though all parties came to the process in good faith. However, the NCP recommends that ASR evaluate the issues raised by the NGOs and consider how to address them, even if the conditions may not exist now to address them through the NCP process. In particular, the NCP recommends that ASR conduct a corporate human rights policy review process.

Initial assessment and conclusion by the US NCP regarding employment issues with a US MNE in Cameroon in electric utility sector

On 27 August 2011, a Cameroonian citizen submitted a specific instance to the UK NCP regarding concerns over alleged labour-related actions by AES SoneI, Cameroon's main electrical utility supplier. The complainant alleged that AES SoneI's actions were inconsistent with the principles in Chapter V (employment and industrial relations) of the Guidelines, and more specifically that he suffered salary discrimination based on his race. Later in the process, the complainant submitted additional information, stating that AES SoneI's actions were also inconsistent with the general policies and disclosure provisions of the Guidelines.

The UK and US NCPs consulted and agreed that the US NCP will take the lead on the specific instance because the AES Corporation, the parent company for AES SoneI, is a US-based MNE.

In its submission, the complainant stated that AES SoneI replaced a number of Cameroonian management staff with expatriate staff. Even though the new managers had less professional experiences, they were offered substantially higher salaries. In the opinion of the complainant, the difference in wages was based on racial discrimination. The complainant also pursued related complaints in separate and on-going parallel proceedings in Cameroon.

After consideration, the US NCP declined to offer its good offices to seek a mediated resolution between the parties and a statement was released on 13 September 2012. The NCP found that the complainant provided insufficient substantiation for a possible race-related discrimination. Differentiated wage scale policies for expatriate and local employees are common practice among multinational enterprises and are not in themselves inconsistent with the Guidelines. The existence of parallel proceedings was not a factor in the NCP's decision not to offer its good offices.

Initial assessment and conclusion by the US NCP on environmental issues with manufacturers from the Netherlands, the UK, and the USA.

On 23 August 2011, Individual A, a resident in Hungary, and Company X, a US-registered company ("the complainants"), submitted four specific instances to the US and UK NCPs raising concerns that four enterprises did not comply with US environmental laws. The complainants alleged that they suffered financial loss as a result of the enterprises' alleged non-conformance with environmental standards.

The UK and US NCPs consulted and agreed that the US NCP will take the lead on the specific instance because the concerns raised in the specific instance occurred in the United States. The US NCP also consulted with the Hungarian NCP.

After several exchanges and examination of the documentation provided by the parties, it appeared to the US NCP that the principal motive for the complainants was to obtain a financial settlement, which is outside the scope of the NCP responsibilities. The complainants also showed serious breach of appropriate conduct, substantial lack of co-operation and misuse of confidential information obtained via the specific instance process, which undermined the establishment of an environment of trust necessary for facilitating a mediated resolution of the dispute. The US NCP thus decided that it will not further the effectiveness of the Guidelines to offer its good offices in relation to this specific instance and four statements were released on 28 August 2012.

Conclusion by the US NCP regarding water utility services in various locations in the United States

The trade union and the MNE reached agreement through a parallel proceeding under which the union would withdraw its specific instance filing. Separately, the civil society organisation decided not to continue the specific instance process but did not wish to withdraw its filing. Given the union and civil society organisation's positions, the NCP concluded the specific instance.

The filing parties submitted the specific instance at a time when the US NCP's procedures called for final statements to be released only to the interested parties.

Conclusion by the US NCP regarding telecommunications services in various locations in the United States

A trade union raised concerns about labour practices in relation to an MNE's operations in the United States. Following a pre-mediation meeting between the parties, which was facilitated by the US NCP, it was determined that the US NCP was no longer able to contribute to a positive resolution of the dispute, and the US NCP withdrew its good offices. The US NCP's statement has not yet been issued.
